Celebrate Good Times! Cardinals clinch World's Series

Pandemonium struck the Quad-City area and the entire St. Louis metropolitan region at 10:13 last night as Cardinal Pitcher Bruce Sutter buried the strike past the Brewers' Gorman Thomas to end the seventh game of the World Series and give the Cardinals their first World Series victory in 15 years.

Fan reaction was quick to follow. Thousands poured over the walls of Busch Stadium and onto the field, shouting, waving pennants, carrying banners and otherwise celebrating the 6-3 come-from-behind victory which broke the three-to-three game tie in the series.

The reaction was only slightly more subdued at clubs and taverns throughout the Quad-City area. Faces were drawn when the Cardinals fell to a 3 to 1 run deficit in the top of the sixth inning, but the mood changed in the bottom of that inning as Ozzie Smith singled, Lonnie Smith doubled into the left field corner, sending Ozzie to third, Gene Tenace walked and the bases were loaded with one out.

Keith Hernandez blasted a single to right center field, scoring Ozzie and Lonnie Smith to tie the game. George Hendrick lined a single to right, scoring Mike Ramsey, who was running for Tenace, and the score was 4 to 3. The runners were stranded, but the Cardinal fans showered Whitey Herzog's team with thunderous applause. From there on, the Cardinals kept control, adding two more runs while holding the Brewers at bay.

Among the happiest were the numerous local residents who managed to obtain tickets to the decisive game. Some of them were in the throng that continued cheering and celebrating far into the night in downtown St. Louis.

Jubilant family gatherings watched the contest on television and saluted Anheuser-Busch, team owner; August Busch Jr., the big brewery's chairman emeritus who still oversees the Cardinals; general manager Joe McDonald; field manager Herzog, who as general manager had reconstructed the team to achieve improved speed and defense; Darrell Porter, the World Series' most valuable player who in recent years had to conquer alcoholism as well as fans' preference for his predecessor as catcher, Ted Simmons of Milwaukee; third-base Ken Oberkell of Madison County, and many other October 1982 heroes.

Del Maxvill, former Granite Cityan now coaching for the Atlanta Braves, tried to help the Braves in their playoff series against the Cardinals, but the Redbirds won the National League pennant with a three-game sweep.

Now, with the Cardinals representing their league against the American League's Milwaukee nine, Maxvill was free to root for the Cardinals—and to recall the glory years of 1964-67-68 when

No prosecution in local ticket scam

United States postal authorities Tuesday said that they have agreed not to ask the U.S. Attorney's office to prosecute a 40-year-old West Granite man involved in a World Series ticket "scam" utilizing the postal service.

Michael Jones, U.S. postal inspector in St. Louis, told the Press-Record Tuesday afternoon that, because of the tremendous backlog in the U.S. Attorney's office and the limited effect of the postal fraud ticket scam, he doubts the case would ever have gone to trial.

"Considering the man received only $795, to my knowledge, and only seven people were victimized, there is little chance the case would ever be prosecuted," Jones said.

The alleged "scam" involved a classified advertisement which appeared in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat last Friday. It read, "100 SEATS, 1st & 3rd baselines, games 6 & 7, $35 ea. cash. 1st come basis." A local telephone number followed.

The postal service came into play when the callers of the advertised telephone number were told to send cash to Post Office Box 59 in Granite City. The callers also were told that an envelope, addressed to them, would be at the general delivery window at the main Granite City post office on Tuesday with tickets for the games requested.

Only seven people are known to have responded to the advertisement. Cash, postal money orders and personal checks were sent to the box number.

Authorities said the person placing the classified ad had cards made out reading to the effect that he promised to

PANDEMONIUM BREAKS LOOSE AT BUSCH STADIUM AFTER THE CARDINAL 6-3 VICTORY

Sale of ill-gotten loot could augment budget, Weber contends

By NANCY WEIL
of the Press-Record
Madison County State's Attorney Don Weber has become known during his time in office for speaking his mind, but after last week's Finance Committee meeting, Weber may earn a reputation as an enterprising financier.

He asked the committee to give his office part of the money he claims the county can make from prosecuting two court cases, one of which involves Charles Hileman of Granite City, former assistant GC fire chief, and the other involving Attorney Ben Urban of Collinsville.

When Weber entered the finance meeting, his budget had been cut five percent. He argued that he needs at least $35,000 more to cover salary increases for attorneys in his office.

Because the county stands to make up to $400,000 through prosecution of the two cases, Weber asked the finance committee to add $35,000 to the state's attorney's budget now because he is certain that much, and more, will be made from the cases.

"As I understand the appraisals, the minimum is $75,000 and the maximum is well over $400,000," Weber said.

Hileman's home was searched by police on a warrant Jan. 15 and approximately $1 million worth of items, including diamonds, furs, TV sets, stereo equipment and motorcycles, allegedly stolen in area burglaries were found. Police picked up on Hileman's trail after a burglary in East Alton on Dec. 23, 1981, when they followed footprints in the snow and arrested two young men who implicated Hileman as their "fence," meaning he allegedly had bought and sold stolen items.

Prior to that, Hileman was on probation after pleading guilty to two counts of felony theft and one count each of burglary and contributing to the delinquency of a minor. The 30 months of probation was revoked in March when Hileman was found selling $9,000 to $11,000 worth of sterling silver place settings and gold to a Clayton, Mo., exchange.

Terms of the probation included an order that he refrain from dealing in coins and precious metals in the operation of his laundromat in the Plaza Shopping Center.

While Hileman's attorney argued that the transactions were his client's "hobby," an assistant state's attorney said that, considering Hileman's background, any kind of transactions involving coins, jewelry and precious metals should be considered a violation of his probation.

"Hileman is bad and he knows it,"

Weber told the Press-Record in his usual flamboyant style.

The only problem is to determine how to divide the money between the East Alton police department and the county.

Weber said that most of the items cannot be identified, so the property must be forfeited and money from the value must be "forfeited to the state."

About $200,000 from the Hileman case should go to the county with $35,000 for the state's attorney's office, Weber contends.

In the case of Ben Urban, former Collinsville city attorney, Weber claims a substantial amount of money also could be obtained from "vigorous prosecution" and from the recovery of $125,000 of stolen money and a house valued at more than $100,000.

Urban has been charged with eight felony counts of theft and one count of forgery by a Madison County grand jury. Urban allegedly took money from the Madison County Circuit Clerk's office in a scheme involving bond money for truckers fined for overweight loads.

Neither of the cases has come to trial, but Weber anticipates "it will not be too long, a month or two." He added that

OK loan for steel firm to move here

By JIM SCHLUETER

An out-of-state steel manufacturing firm is considering a move to Madison County, and the county board has approved a request by the firm for a $61,000 loan to get started. There is speculation the firm is looking at a site in the city of Madison.

The county board approved the loan at its meeting Wednesday after hearing from Aaron Ridenour of the Community Development office. Ridenour said the $61,000 — which will be borrowed at six percent interest over five years — will come from Community Development funds set aside for

Bubblemasters host Midwest convention

By VALERIE EVENEDEN
of the Press-Record

The Granite City Bubblemasters will host the Midwest Dive Council's fall convention Saturday and Sunday at the Holiday Inn in Alton.

(MDC), consisting of diving clubs from Missouri, Illinois and Kansas, had a roster of 24 member clubs in the 1982 diving season.

A hospitality room is planned Friday night with local Bubblemasters greeting members from out-of-state clubs and others.

Business sessions begin Saturday morning with the council delegate and MDC director from each club participating, according to Don Adams, a past president of the Bubblemasters.

Arnold Sanders of Godfrey and Glen Gates of Alton are the current Bubblemasters' delegate and director, respectively.

During the conference, proposed competition for the year is reviewed with problem areas discussed and new rules formulated, if needed, it was explained.

An important issue voted at that time is "Club of the Year" honors, an award which is bestowed upon the club that has accumulated most points in competitive diving and contributes the best "letter."

A "letter" is submitted by each member club outlining its inter-club activities, public relations and safety and training activities during the previous year, it was explained. The winning letter is voted by secret ballot with each director taking part in the balloting process.

"Club of the Year" awards are given in two categories—large clubs and small clubs (10 members or fewer).

A typical year for the MDC clubs is a spring meeting to establish rules, regulations and dive schedules for the year. Members then compete in diving meets during the summer months at various lakes, including Table Rock, Bull Shoals, Norfolk Stockton, Pom de Terre and Truman.

Competition consists of skin and scuba spearfishing, triathlon events and underwater photography.

Spearfishing contests are divided in three categories, including novice, affording all divers an opportunity to win awards and accumulate points toward the coveted "Bryant" awards presented at the MDC fall conventions, Adams said.

Triathlon competition, the local diver explained, is comprised of pipe mazes, compass courses, light salvage and shape puzzles. All are accomplished underwater.

Many awards for photography using various types of cameras will be awarded at the fall convention, following a presentation of slides by Joe Kimball.

Engraved plaques and awards also are presented to novice divers, and special categories of "Diver of the Year" honors for special records, membership, appreciation and, usually, a "gag" award.

The gala awards banquet is scheduled at 6:30 p.m. Saturday at the Alton Holiday Inn and will be followed by dancing.

New Midwest Dive Council officers will be elected at a business meeting Sunday morning, Adams said.

The Bubblemasters' membership includes divers and their families from Alton, Belleville, Collinsville, Edwardsville, Godfrey and Wood River, as well as the Granite City area.

Deadline for testing

Applications for the 1982 Professional Qualification Test, the first step in a career with the National Security Agency, are available from University Placement services at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

Application deadline is Oct. 23 for the Nov. 13 test date.

The agency is the national authority for all United States communications security activities, and it develops foreign intelligence information for defense. It is located in a building complex between Washington, D.C., and Baltimore, Md.

NISA employs college graduates with a broad intellectual background to work in computer systems, languages, communications security, cryptography and management and administration. Salaries begin at the GS-7 level at $16,000.

The 1982 test is free and open to United States citizens who will have a bachelor's degree by February, 1984.

ACCIDENT NEAR CENTRAL HARDWARE

Hagnauer county official 27 years

Nelson Hagnauer, 54, longtime Granite City Township supervisor and Madison County Board chairman, is unopposed in the Nov. 2 election for a new four-year County Board term.

A Democrat, he is a former county Democratic chairman in man-servant in the mid-1970s, after Walter "Buck" Simmons and before Christ Costoff.

He is a on the ballot next month in District 20, which he has represented since the present 29-district County Board was formed May 1, 1972.

Past chairman of the East-West Gateway Coordinating Council, this metropolitan area's council of government officials, Hagnauer has been county board chairman since the death in 1971 of Chairman Harold Landolt. At that time, it was a 49-member board composed of the township supervisors and 25 assistant supervisors.

He has been supervisor since 1981 and for six years before that was assistant supervisor; the assistant supervisor office no longer exists.

His total tenure on the county board is 27 years (half his life) and the new term could extend his board service to 31 years.

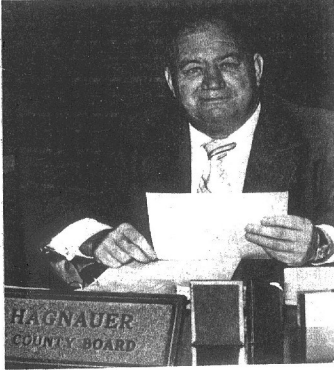

A native and lifelong resident of Granite City, Hagnauer is active in many groups and has received numerous awards, including national recognition of Madison County government accomplishments.

He and his wife, Bernadine, have a daughter, Carol Sue, and a son, Nelson Jr.

While Hagnauer has shown ability to work with both Democrats and Republicans on the County Board, the county government is undergoing unusual stress at present due to economic factors related to the national recession.

Officials are well into their detailed budget planning for the 1983 fiscal year, which begins Dec. 1, 1982, and efforts are being made to resolve an invoice of about $2 million between yearly revenue and spending patterns.

for county Democrats Sept. 26 was picketed by members of Teamsters Local 525. Signs were critical of Hagnauer, County Board Administrator Mary Kane, County Clerk Evelyn Bowles, County Recorder Ronald Lucas, Circuit Clerk Willard Portell, County Treasurer Mick Henkhaus, County Auditor Arthur Fields, Coroner Dallas Burke and Metro-East Sanitary District President Walter Greathouse.

The pickets cited a legal dispute between the Teamsters and the sanitary district, and also mentioned dissatisfaction over county employees' representation election, in which the State, County and Municipal Employees union retained the right to bargain for most county workers.

To help fight the recession, the County Board this fall is initiating industrial development bond issues. Board members have been resisting proposals to increase the county highway tax rate, boost the general

Daily phone check offered to elderly

Those elderly or incapacitated residents who live alone are being offered the opportunity to become part of a "Telephone Reassurance Program," according to Marge Hall of Programs and Services for Older Persons, a service of Belleville Area College (BAC).

The program was organized in Granite City and is sponsored by the Retired Senior Volunteer Program of BAC. The purpose is to telephone persons who live alone to check their well-being.

There are a number of such persons living in the Quad-City area who have no one to look after them on a regular basis, stated Mrs. Hall. "If they were to fall or become suddenly become ill, they might not be able to get help."

The network is staffed by volunteer callers, who will contact the elderly person at a prearranged time each day. If the client does not answer after a number of attempts to telephone, a neighbor or relative will be contacted and be asked to make a house visit.

Those interested in the Telephone Reassurance Service or in becoming volunteer callers may call 876-3223.

St. Clair Square also is inviting community groups to present Christmas musical performances beginning Dec. 1. Performances will be scheduled Mondays through Thursdays from Dec. 1 through Dec. 23.

Many groups, including churches, schools, and various clubs have been performing during the Christmas season at St. Clair Square since its opening in 1974. Groups wishing to perform should contact Tina Barnard or Nancy Kennedy in the administration office at St. Clair Square at 1-632-7566 to ensure the dates of their choice by Friday, Nov. 23.

Image campaign vs. 3rd-term jinx

Public image and substance are not necessarily the same thing. But by almost any yardstick Gov. James R. Thompson is conducting an awesome campaign to break the "no third-term" jinx in Illinois Nov. 2.

We received in the mail, to be considered for publication in the Oct. 18 Press-Record—

—Word of the release of a $22 million advance payment to Chicago's regional transit authority; $50,000 to Booth Memorial Hospital in Chicago to combat infant mortality; a consumer guide on insurance purchases; $22,000 to design a Federal Aviation Administration flight service center near Mount Vernon; and added funds for "displaced homemakers."

—Announcement of a program to lower costs to Illinois meat packers and agencies buying their products; a new Bureau of Census has service for the aged and handicapped; opening of new Delta, Inc. world headquarters in Naperville; U.S. selection of Illinois and 19 other states to participate in spurring job creation through small businesses; completion of a new Pekin bridge; and campaign endorsements from several newspapers and many law enforcement leaders.

—Opposition to Indiana flood control projects that might harm the Kankakee River, and forcing of Illinoisans to subsidize the production and transportation of foreign natural gas supplies.

Plans for: worker compensation seminars at three sites, including today in Edwardsville; a new LaSalle-Peru area airport; and a federal procurement conference to boost U.S. spending in the Midwest.

—Honors to: McDonald's Corp. and Chicago Services for training the retarded; and a Rockford police detective skilled in investigating arson.

—Advice to citizens on: how to plan nutritious Halloween treats; how to avoid baby cribs hazardous to infants' necks; how to cope with influenza; how to obtain appointment as a Coast Guard Academy cadet; and how property buyers can guard against damage or liability losses.

In their spare time, the governor and his associates also updated us on his administration's work in "private sector and volunteer involvement." The material was headed "Chapter 16." Such segments of "the Thompson record" now form a stack several inches thick.

It is not new that "ins" usually outdo "outs" in pointing with pride to their official actions. But the governor obviously has elevated this to an art form. And adding insult to injury, he keeps asking his opponent to, in effect, "name one thing you did during your ten years as a senator."

Best to pick our own leaders

The Milwaukee Journal recently slipped this editorial in before the Brewers took their minds off the election.

According to public opinion polls, people who don't vote are prone to blame the political system rather than themselves.

They can't bring themselves to say they are staying away from the polls because they simply have not learned enough about candidates and issues to make intelligent choices.

No, the non-voters are likely to contend instead that all of the candidates are poorly qualified or that nothing will change regardless of who wins the election. In our view, those are mainly cop-out excuses.

In terms of education and familiarity with public policy, candidates for public office today generally are better qualified than were their predecessors in earlier decades.

But many politicians still are too beholden to special interests, the non-voter will argue. Indeed they are, although that is not a problem that people can solve by staying away from the polls.

The obvious solution is for each citizen to pay attention to government, study issues and candidates closely and vote for those candidates who seem most likely to pursue goals that the citizen values.

Anyone not willing to take these steps will have to get used to living with the kind of government that somebody else chooses. Is that what you want?

Hug a vending machine week?

OK, enough is enough!

Nowadays, it seems, everybody and everything wants a piece of the action.

We received some mail Friday morning announcing "Hug a Vending Machine Week" beginning next Sunday, Oct. 24. Now, ordinarily, that wouldn't have been too bad, but I just found out that this Sunday, Oct. 24, also is Mothers-in-law Day. This Sunday will be bad enough, but then we're asked to go around for a WHOLE week hug vending machines. HUMBUG.

Perhaps, we're just traditionalists. But we prefer the "accepted" holidays: Christmas, Independence Day, Mothers' and Fathers' Day etc. The others are gimmicks.

We just recently picked up a 1983 calendar. On the last page of the calendar is listed all the special days of the year.

October 1983 is the busiest month for these special holidays — there are six of them. That comes out to one every five days. I was aware of the traditional holidays: Columbus Day and Halloween. But right there in between those two are "Sweetest Day" (We don't know if that's candy manufacturers' day or a day for your sweetheart. Either way, we're sure, candy manufacturers will benefit.) on Oct. 15. Then, (love this one) Oct. 16, is Boss's Day.

Mothers-in-law Day is slated for Oct. 23 in 1983, followed by United Nations Day on Oct. 24.

Anyway, the calendar lists 41 special days. That leaves 224 days "undeclared" yet. It's possible to have your own day. It only takes a congressional approval.

By the way, as far as what we'll be hugging this Sunday our mother-in-laws or a vending machine. Let's put it this way. It'll be expecting something before it gives anything and it will be too wide to put my arms around to hug.

That's as far as I go.

Colonialism vs. independence

As Robert Wesson, professor of political science at the University of California, Santa Barbara, has pointed out, many widely-accepted beliefs are myths—such as the impregnability of the Maginot Line, the goodness of Stalin and the wisdom of Chairman Mao.

Many say Taiwan is really a part of China that ought to be "reunited" with it. This, too, may be a myth. Wesson says, although even such a staunch friend of Taiwan as Pres. Reagan has agreed to limit defense equipment sales to the island nation at the urging of the Communist regime on the mainland.

The spoken language of Taiwan is completely unintelligible to the people of Peking. The written language formerly was similar but it has substantially diverged in the last three decades; many characters have been modified by the Peking government, and ideas and expressions have changed both on Taiwan and the mainland. An educated Taiwanese cannot easily read a Red China newspaper.

Taiwanese have become culturally different, first from 50 years of Japanese rule, followed by 35 years of rapid and successful modernization, an experience totally different from that of the mainland. With the passage of time, no living person can recall the era when the island was part of the Chinese empire.

Except for classics, the two countries have entirely different literature, music and arts. Religious observance is strong on Taiwan; in Red China, it has been almost eliminated.

The two political systems, of course, differ dramatically. And the economic system of Taiwan has been far more successful, by all measurements, Wesson accurately notes. Foreign trade per capita on tiny Taiwan is nearly a hundred times as large as that of the massive land area governed by Peking.

It is generally accepted in these anti-colonial times that detached territories inhabited by distinct peoples are entitled to be free if they desire; even tiny Caribbean isles are so recognized.

"Reunification" by peaceful methods is a fantasy and neither of the lands wants to put the issue "on the front burner" of their most pressing national issues. The independent country of Taiwan is entitled to remain independent, rather than being enslaved needlessly behind a "bamboo curtain."

Members of the Press-Record editorial staff surveyed Quad-Cityans and asked them: Do you think President Reagan's policies have helped or hurt the nation's economy. Their answers follow:

Delois Sexton, Granite City:

"Really hurt. Everything seems to me a lot worse than it was before. It's getting like it was in the '30s during the Depression time. I've been laid off since February."

Rick Roberts, Granite City:

"That's a hard question. I guess he's trying as hard as everybody else has been. It's a tough job. We have a lot of advantages, but we're not using all our resources."

Rick Wilkiewicz, Granite City:

"I think it has hurt the economy. His original policies would have helped, but then Congress got involved and he changed what he was doing."

Barbara Campbell, Granite City:

"I think it's hurt. Social security had to borrow money. I think he's hurt the social security system."

Alton police chief feels Judge Moran A-OK

To the Editor,

I was kind of at a loss when I saw that the attorneys did not recommend retention of (Circuit) Judge George Moran (Jr.). Judge Moran is as hard working and cooperative as any judge. He was extremely good when he was up here for about a year from mid 1980 to mid 1981 and I was extremely impressed. He did a heck of a job while here. He was tremendous to work with and a hard-working judge.

He helped in many ways. When we were plagued with loud vehicle mufflers on motorcycles and cars, I went to him and explained the situation. We adopted a program that any motorist issued a violation ticket was given a form letter advising him that if the muffler was not corrected immediately, he would be fined $100 on the first appearance. If it was corrected and the police certified the correction before he went to court, he would pay a minimum fine.

It worked out very well for us.

We really made a lot of headway on an issue previously the court took very lightly.

I think Judge Moran should be retained on the bench. I really feel he belongs there.

CHIEF RUDY SOWDEN
Alton Police Department

Committeeman feels Democrats create jobs

To the Editor:

I would like to ask my fellow voters the following questions:

Are you unemployed, been unemployed, or know somebody who is unemployed?

Have you been asked to take reductions in your wages, or fringe benefits, or both?

Are you able to buy a new house or remodel the one you have, with today's high interest rates?

Can you afford to replace that old worn out car, refrigerator, or stove?

Well, by now I guess you get my point. Unemployment affects each and everyone of us, in one way or another. It affects your community, your state, and your federal government. If people are unemployed, they just don't have the money to spend.

Take a good look at your savings account. Did you have more money in the bank in 1979 or now?

Is Reaganomics really working? Have we turned that corner?

In our community alone, we have an unemployment rate around 20 percent. Factories are working at about 50 percent of their capability, or just shutting down.

The interest rates are still hovering around 15 percent. Hampering industrial, commercial and residential recovery and growth, which in return produces employment.

Utility companies are asking for another 20 percent increase. Prices are still going up and your real spending dollar is still going down.

So you ask yourself again, is Reaganomics really working? Have we just turned the corner? I say no, we haven't even seen that corner yet.

"What can you do?" Well you can send a message to Washington, loud and clear by voting straight Democrat on Nov. 2.

Can you afford two more years of Reaganomics? Send your message to Washington and Reagan. Vote, vote straight Democrat!

Employment is contagious. Democrats employ people, who employ people, who just may employ you.

Madison bootleggers have threatened the life of Justice of the Peace Ben Megoff for his alleged connection with federal prohibition agents who have been conducting numerous raids and making arrests in this community during the past few weeks. Wednesday night at 9 o'clock three half bricks were hurled through the windows of his office, 210 Madison avenue, Madison, by two unknown men who were seen to flee through an adjoining alleyway. Fastened to one of bricks with a rubber band was the following note scribbled in longhand: "If you point your finger again, we will smash your head in just like we smashed your windows." There was no signature.

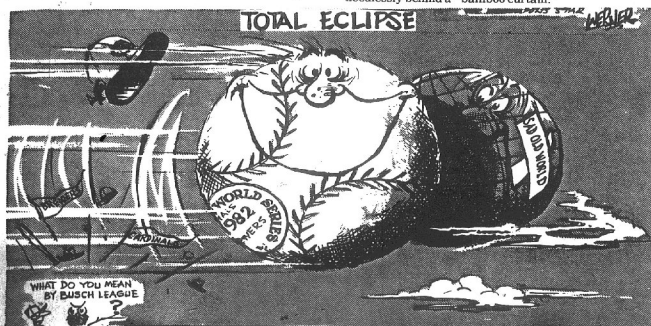

He admitted having passed on four liquor cases and has six more on his docket, but he vigorously denied that he was a "finger" man for the prohibitionists. "Most of the people involved in the liquor cases on my docket I have known for years, and I am positive none of them are implicated in any way with this episode," he said.

Sightings of the rocket of the Russian satellite were reported Friday morning and again in the evening by residents of the Quad-Cities. Mrs. Herman Haack, 2541 Lynch avenue, in the Cloverview Addition, was seeing her husband off to work about 6:30 a.m., when she looked into the sky and saw the rocket of Sputnik cross the sky. "It was traveling at the speed of an airplane and I watched it shine out like a bright star for several minutes. It had all the brilliance of a star," Mrs. Haack said.

Ten-year-old Philip Fraundorf, sixth grader at Louis Baer school and son of Police Chief and Mrs. Barney Fraundorf, 2021 Rhodes street, used a compass in daylight to chart the path of the satellite from a place near his home clear of trees. He and his brother and mother and two neighbors sighted the rocket for about four minutes at 8:39 p.m. The youth said the rocket dimmed three times for a second or two.

Seek teens for overseas exchange

Youth for Understanding, endorsed by the U.S. International Communication Agency as a non-profit, educational organization, is now accepting applications from students between the ages of 14 and 16, who would like to spend a year or a summer overseas.

Kate Ficke, YFU's program coordinator for Illinois, Kansas, Missouri and Wisconsin, advises, "We are looking for students who are open to adventure and change within themselves. A strong desire to live with and adapt to a family in another country is more important than a straight-A average. There is no limit to the number of qualified students we may accept from one school."

"Nor should finances necessarily bar a student from participating," continues Mrs. Ficke. "Many students plan ahead and help their families by earning a portion of their program fee, and a limited number of partial scholarships are also available. Other students find that local community groups are willing to assist."

More than 2,000 American high school students will go abroad with YFU next summer or school year. Transportation, orientation, counseling, and support services here and abroad, as well as matching with a host family, and language training (for most year students) are included in the program fee, which varies depending upon program length and distance.

In addition to the American Overseas program, Mrs. Ficke says, "YFU also offers another intercultural opportunity—bringing the world into your own home. Students from 25 countries come to the U.S. for a year or six months and live with American host families while attending local high schools. Our local network of community-based volunteers works with students, and host families throughout the year."

Persons interested in learning more about Youth for Understanding's international student exchange opportunities may contact the YFU Regional Office, 1 South 111 Spring Road, number 106, Elmhurst, Ill. 60120, or call the office collect at 1-312-832-2177.

Illinois Power protests hikes for liquefied natural gas

In what company officials say is a continuing effort to protect its customers from unnecessary increases in the cost of natural gas, Illinois Power Company has filed testimony with the Economic Regulatory Agency (ERA) objecting to the cost of imported liquefied natural gas (LNG).

The ERA held a hearing last week in Peoria to gather information surrounding the higher cost of Algerian LNG being imported into the United States. The increased cost would be passed to utility customers.

Illinois Power Company contends the pipeline company modified the original contract with Algeria and hearings were not held on those modifications. Among its concerns, Illinois Power wants an examination of whether there is a national need for the liquefied natural gas to be imported at the price proposed in the modified supply contract and whether there is a real need for the LNG in this area.

Illinois Power Company purchases natural gas from five interstate pipeline companies. If LNG is imported by Trunkline, Illinois Power will receive LNG as part of its gas supply from three of its pipeline suppliers: Pandhandle Eastern Pipe Line Company, Trunkline Gas Company and Mississippi River Transmission Corporation, which total about 75 percent of Illinois Power's gas supply. However, the impact of the imported LNG would be softened by the natural gas purchased from the company's two other pipeline suppliers.

In addition to the filing of this testimony, Illinois Power Company has submitted testimony before the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (FERC). Illinois Power Company appears and participates in all regulatory proceedings involving gas supply and gas rates of its suppliers. Since the beginning of this year, Illinois Power Company has intervened in 15 separate dockets before the FERC involving five pipeline suppliers.

Inclusion of LNG would mean about an $18.54 increase during a heating season for Illinois Power residential customers. A residential space-heating customer using 84 therms presently is paying $406.27 for natural gas for the heating season October 1982 through February 1983. Inclusion of LNG would increase this season's heating bill to $424.80, or $19.53 for the five-month period (approximately $3.70 per month), according to IP figures.

The cost of natural gas from pipeline suppliers accounts for about 75 percent of an Illinois Power Company customer's bill, a spokesman said.

Hagnauer's pay to rise

Madison County board chairman Nelson Hagnauer will receive a 7 percent pay increase next year and in 1984, but county board members voted down a pay increase for themselves at their meeting Wednesday. Hagnauer will get $34,500 in fiscal year 1983 and $36,215 in 1984, instead of the present $22,900, it was decided 2-2 by the board. Only Herschel Beane, Godfrey, and George Schmittling, Roxana, voted against it.

The chairman is unopposed for a board position Nov. 2. The board members voted their own increase by 14-11. The defeated resolution would have raised salaries from the current $5,500 a year to $5,885 in 1984, $6,296 in 1985 and $6,737 in 1986. It proposed no increase for 1983.

Board Member Bill Webb, Granite City, expressed the views of many board members, saying the increase would come at a bad time, because budget problems are now forcing county employee layoffs.

Reduce charge in fatal shooting

Despite the death of Rodney D. Hanner, 21, of 3008 Madison Ave. June 29 in a shooting at the Curve Inn tavern on Missouri Avenue north of Granite City, a murder charge was dropped. The charge was a new charge of voluntary manslaughter was filed.

Two counts of armed violence remained in effect. Pleading guilty to the three current charges was Paul Dean Fisher, 47, of Ponton Beach.

The victim died of a head wound. His brother, Ronald Q. Hanner, 23, and Troy E. Howell, 31, both of Granite City, also were shot by Fisher and suffered severe injuries. They are recuperating.

Circuit Judge Philip J. Rarik said sentencing will take place later. Assistant State's Attorney Gregory Massey is recommending a ten-year prison term.

Venice schools adopt tax levy of $620,700

by DONNA KIMBRO of the Press-Record

At a public hearing Monday night, required under the Illinois Truth-In-Taxation Act, Venice School Board members approved a new tax levy and agreed to delete a proposed five cent (per $100 assessed) levy for Fire Protection and Safety.

The original total amount estimated as necessary to be raised by taxation for the district's fiscal year 1982-83, and based on taxes levied against the assessed valuation of the district for 1982, was $628,700. With the deletion, the total now will be $620,700.

Superintendent of Schools Robert Vickers explained the five cents was included in the levy to accumulate funds to be used for a survey to determine the asbestos content in classroom ceilings and for replacement of ceilings, if necessary.

With the time element involved to file reports and cost estimates, it will be more feasible to delete the five cents and, after a professional engineers report, the board can then make a decision if the replacement is necessary. Should the board agree to the project, it may issue bonds to complete the life safety work in conjunction with guidelines set by the state where there is a possibility of asbestos content, Vickers said.

The levy now reflects a $3.65 (per $100 assessed valuation) tax rate for next year, as opposed to 3.70 originally estimated. This is an 18 cent increase over the current rate but is 20 cents less than the 1979 rate, Superintendent Vickers explained.

Venice dinner, style show tomorrow for United Way

Miss Shirley Brown, a recording artist for 20th Century Fox and a resident of Venice, will be the guest soloist at the dinner and style show Friday night at the Venice recreation Center, 323 Broadway.

All proceeds are to be donated to the Tri-Cities Area United Way campaign, according to the Venice coordinator for Group D solicitations for the United Way, the Rev. John Henry Williams.

He said the dinner and show, scheduled from 7 to 9 p.m., will be sponsored by the Peoples Organization to Benefit Children of Venice. Admission for adults is $5 and for children under 12 years of age $2. Rev. Williams explained.

Miss Brown was born in West Memphis, Ark., and attended elementary schools in the Memphis, Tenn., area prior to moving to Venice.

Shirley Brown

with her family.

She became a member of the 1982 McKendree College and was active in church programs and with the choir. Miss Brown has won a Grammy Award, Image Award and has appeared on international television. She toured South Africa for six weeks in November, 1981, and will return in February, 1982, for another six-week visit. Included in her proposed trip will be a performance in East London, according to the announcement.

Other chairmen involved in the fund-raising project are the Rev. Reggie Fields, Mary Ann Puritt, Helen Bishop, Mrs. Annie Claggett, Silver Lee Franklin, Green Jacks and Earl Hogan, who are serving Rev. Williams in the United Way campaign. NAME IS IN ERROR

A military news release and photo published in Monday's Press-Record incorrectly listed Allen Breen as enlisting in the U.S. Navy. Breen's first name is David. He will enter the service Aug. 1, 1983, after graduating from Granite City High School South.

Arrest in rape case

A 20-year-old Granite City man was arrested by Madison police Monday on a warrant issued by the Venice Police Department for the July 22 rape of a 15-year-old Granite City girl.

Richard Dennis Mayor, who police said also uses the name Richard Dennis Womack, was arrested at 10:15 p.m. after he was spotted in a vehicle driving in the area of McCabridge and between Edwardsville Road and 14th Street.

Police stopped the vehicle in the 2000 block of Edwardsville Road and arrested Mayor, who was a passenger in the vehicle.

The alleged rape occurred after the suspect and another man abducted the girl and her cousin as the two girls were sitting at 14th Street and Iowa Avenue. The two men were in a car and drove around the block twice before stopping and asking the victim for a light. The men proceeded to talk to the girls, then pushed them into the car. They were taken to the boat dock area in Venice where the 15-year-old was raped.

Mayor is being held in lieu of $100,000 bond.

Beth Gollinger in college coronation

Elizabeth Gollinger of Granite City, chairman of the 1982 McKendree College (Lebanon, Ill.) homecoming, is one of four homecoming queen candidates.

The coronation will take place at a dinner dance Saturday evening. The dinner dance will begin with a social hour at 6 p.m. Saturday at Buckley's Garden Restaurant in Fairview Heights. A meal will be served, and the coronation ceremony is scheduled for 10:30 p.m.

The local queen candidate is a business administration and psychology major. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Ellerbe Jr. of Granite City.

In addition to serving as homecoming chairman, Miss Gollinger is a member of the Student Government, Alpha Omega sorority, Inter-Society Council, New Student Orientation Committee and the school choir. She is secretary of the women's dormitory, vice-chairman of the Venice Conduct Committee and a student representative to the executive committee of the Alumni Association.

She received last year's Who's Who Among American College Students award and has been a member of the homecoming court for the past two years.

Her escort this year will be Doug Leavelle of Godfrey, a 1982 McKendree business graduate. A parade is planned at 11 a.m. Saturday, featuring floats plus bands and other activities. A luncheon from noon to 2 p.m. Saturday will include music by the Das Belleville Blues Koppelle group.

The soccer Bears will challenge Parks College at 2 p.m., with the homecoming court introduced at halftime. An ice cream social will be held at 4 p.m. Saturday on the Deneen patio.

Caught early today

Captured after allegedly running from the scene of a break-in at the Western Auto store at Front St., at 4:30 a.m. today, Richard W. Curtis Jr. is being charged with burglary.

Granite City police apprehended Curtis, 28, of Cahokia, in a yard in the 2000 block of Grand Avenue.

Door glass had been broken, and a $120 cassette radio from the store was found in a nearby sidewalk.

The suspect said he needed a gift for "my wife's birthday tomorrow." An active warrant from the Madison County sheriff's department alleges past delivery of a controlled substance; the bond is $10,000.

he played shortstop and helped spark the St. Louis Cardinals to league titles and two world championships. The series proved to be a big disappointment for the awesomely talented Brewers, whose bats spoke loudly in some of the contests but ultimately were tamed by superior Cardinal pitching. But the victors were generous in their appraisal of the vanquished, and many baseball experts expect Milwaukee to return to the World Series next year. As to the Cardinals' future prospects, how can they miss? At least that is the admittedly partisan viewpoint of thousands of Quad-Cityans still bubbling over on the morning after one of the most dramatic sports triumphs ever.

Book, magazine auction to aid Lovejoy Library

A "preview auction" and "a third day" will be held to preview features of this year's Book Fair sponsored by the Friends of Lovejoy Library at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. The ninth annual event, which traditionally offers thousands of used books at bargain prices, is scheduled this Saturday, Sunday and Monday, Oct. 23 to 25, in the Communications Building lobby at the university. Admission will be $2 for a preview from 3 to 6 p.m.

Saturday, with a special auction of rare Americana, "Life," "National Geographic" and many other items, scheduled at 5:30 p.m., according to Sheila Stimson, executive secretary of the Friends organization. The regular Book Fair, for which admission is free, will be from noon to 4 p.m. Sunday and 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Monday.

Mrs. Stimson said books of every description will be included this year, including antiquarian books, literary first editions, travel and description children's books, turn-of-the-century fiction, classic literature, fantasy-science fiction, foreign language, paperbacks, fine arts, biographies, science, Americana and history, and a broad range in social sciences, as well as old magazines and bindings. Prices of sale items will range from 30 cents each for a variety of "pick-up" reading selections, to $25 for specialized or rare pieces. All proceeds will be used to benefit Lovejoy Library.

Free parking will be provided Saturday and Sunday adjacent to the Communications Building. Throughout the year, the Friends' organization seeks books, music, phonograph records, photographs, ethnic records, local historical materials, old editions of popular magazines and other library items for the library's own collections or for fund-raising projects. Those wishing to donate such materials at any time throughout the year may call the Friends' office at 1-692-2711.

An Audio-Visual Program is probably the last thing you'd expect to see at a funeral home.

We believe the very special, very sensitive programs in our audio-visual library provide insights that can help the families we serve make some of the difficult adjustments they're likely to face.

These deal with subjects like finding the right words to explain death to a young child, and ways of coping with the loss of a spouse. We offer them to help our families, and anyone else who may be experiencing the pain of separation, work toward overcoming their grief and looking to the future with hope.

Charlie Brown, Big Bird among characters in newest Halloween attraction: the Patch

Two local Junior Achievement companies, sponsored by Bell Telephone Co., are combining their talents this year to provide the only young children's Halloween attraction in the Quad-City area. While there are numerous haunted houses in the area, this group has decided to present a young peoples' attraction designed to delight the youngsters, "instead of scaring the socks off of them," a spokesman said.

The patch will feature Charlie Brown and his dog, Snoopy. Children will be able to talk with a mechanical talking pumpkin and visit with friendly grave diggers at a pretend graveyard. Cookie Monster from Sesame Street will also be there to visit with the children.

The high school-aged Junior Achievers also will have cookies and Christmas calendars, which they made as a company project, on sale.

The patch will be open Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 23 and 24, from 1 to 8 p.m. at the J.A. Center, Wabash and Johnson roads, behind Mid-Town Pharmacy. Tickets are $2.50 and include the selection of an eight to 15 pound pumpkin and the admission of two people to the pumpkin patch.

IN GOOD HANDS. Little Kimberly Snell has a wide-eyed look as she feels Snoopy's nose to see if it is real during a practice for the Patch, a Halloween feature for children which will be presented Saturday and Sunday at the Junior Achievement Center. Portraying the characters, for rehearsal only, are Georgia Stawar, Snoopy, and Jackie Snell as Charlie Brown, right. Of course, the real characters will appear in the Patch this weekend.

BPW style show Sunday, Nov. 7

The Granite City Business and Professional Women's Club is completing an array of exciting, new and different ideas for its annual style show, scheduled Sunday, Nov. 7, at the Granite City Township Center, 2060 Delmar Ave.

"The day will be spent promoting awareness of changes in our world, the world of fashions, women and our city," according to Rosemarie Lindner, general chairman. Additionally, the BPW members also will devote the afternoon to the recognition of St. Elizabeth Medical Center for its contributions to the people of the Metro-East area. The 74 departments of this multi-community serving health center will be recognized in a variety of ways, including decorations, models, escorts and pages, Mrs. Lindner said. Fifteen local stores will furnish the newest of fashions that will be previewed by 70 different models. The two-hour show will be interrupted only for refreshments being served by the Candy Strippers from SEMC and with entertainment, furnished by "A Rose and 3 Thorns," SEMC's musical group which includes Bob Gill, public relations, Pattie Hutchinson, secretary in plant service, Kevin Payton, plant service, and Ron Payton, director of personnel. Linda Irwin will be offering the largest craft bazaar selection ever presented at the traditional style show. Members also will spend one day at the home of Hazel Rollins, chairman, making homemade brownies to serve show patrons. Graphic Designer Dana Milonski has created a total change from the customary table decoration that are commonplace for most of us and has carried the colorful arrangement onto the cover of the ad book, the chairman advised. Donations, costing $2 per ticket, may be purchased from any BPW member or may be obtained at the door.

Charge two with threatening woman

A 16-year-old youth and Steve Walker, 19, of Madison were arrested and charged with disorderly conduct and assault Sunday at 10 p.m. after an incident in which the two allegedly cursed at and threatened bodily harm to a woman. The youth also was charged with resisting arrest.

The woman reported that the two came to her home in the 1600 block of Fourth Street looking for someone. When she told them that the person they wanted was not there, they refused to leave and started to curse and threaten her she said. When police arrived, the two fled between buildings. Walker was arrested as he was exiting from between the two buildings. The younger teen was found hiding under a stairwell, but started to run when officers found him. Police took chase on foot north on Washington Avenue. The youth slipped and fell, cutting his upper lip, and police apprehended him. Authorities said the two appeared to be "highly intoxicated."

Area is 'richly endowed' for high-tech growth, study shows

The St. Louis region is "richly endowed" with the attributes suitable for a high-technology innovation center or research park, a study by the St. Louis Regional Commerce and Growth Association concludes.

The study, which has been presented to the RCGA Board of Directors, proposes that a planning task force be created to pursue the idea.

The author of the report, George Sloan, the RCGA's science and engineering director, warned Tuesday that results would not be seen overnight. The essential ingredients in a high-tech program, he said, are planning, "enduring patience," involvement of all concerned and "entrepreneurial leadership."

Sloan's conceptual proposal calls for a network of independent innovation centers in St. Louis, Columbia and Rolla, each with university connections, and a suburban research park near St. Louis.

An innovation center is affiliated with one or more university and is aimed at creating new business from indigenous technology. A research park is directed toward attracting high-tech activities from established organizations.

Sloan visited and analyzed five research centers in his study. They are Research Triangle in North Carolina, Philadelphia's University City Science Center, the University of Utah Research Park, Georgia Tech and Rensselaer. They vary in objectives, ownership and financing, he noted, but all have had a "dramatic impact" on their host communities.

All feature co-operation among private, public and academic sectors.

Using two studies to rate the St. Louis region as a site for high-tech activity, Sloan found the area passed the tests easily, thanks to its university and corporate research programs, good schools, pool of skilled technicians, transportation services, good housing, cultural offerings, favorable business climate and low cost of living.

Sloan said Tuesday that officials of St. Louis University, Washington University, the University of Missouri at St. Louis and others had promised support of the project.

Emphasis on high-technology activities has increased across the country in the past few years, following the national trend away from traditional manufacturing employment and heavy industry and the creation of new jobs in technically-oriented fields. The RCGA is a regional

State anti-drug group forms

A state-wide citizens' group opposing drug abuse has been newly formed, according to C. Gregory Thomas, chairman of the Edwardsville Marijuana Education Committee.

Thomas and Richard Cruse, vice chairman of the Edwardsville group, met in Springfield with other citizens' group leaders to discuss the formation of a state-wide coalition to work against drug abuse.

Also in attendance were representatives from the Illinois Dangerous Drugs Commission and the Prevention Resource Center.

As a result, the "Illinois Drug Education Association and Alcohol (IDEA)" was formed. IDEA will work to build a network of citizens' groups for the purpose of sharing information and resources in a war on drug abuse.

Anyone interested in forming an anti-drug abuse group or joining an existing group may write to C. Gregory Thomas, chairman, Edwardsville Marijuana Education Committee, 105 Mark Trail, Edwardsville, Ill., 62025, or call 1-288-8858. Those interested also may call Topper Davis at 1-800-252-8951.

Barton refutes published statements by his opponent

Responding to statements made by his opponent in the Press-Record candidate biography, Bob Barton, Republican candidate for Madison County Treasurer, contended that the incumbent, Mick Henkhaus, "is trying to run like a Republican, but he doesn't know how."

Barton says that, although he is a Republican, "I'm running like a Democrat." Barton disputed a statement by Henkhaus that the incumbent had eliminated four positions in the treasurer's office and saved $250,000. Barton says the employees were reduced by three, from 32 to 29, then Henkhaus hired his own brother, and in the last four years has spent $67,600 more than former treasurer George Mueso spent in his last four years in office.

Barton noted that Henkhaus touted the extension from 30 days to 60 days the time between when taxpayers made their first tax installment and the time they made their final payment. Actually, Barton contends, the savings (by not borrowing money, 30 days earlier) was only $6 to $8 for the average person, but the banks made two percent over the prime rate for the extra 30 days they could keep their large escrow accounts before paying the taxes for homeowners from them.

"It was another ploy to assist his banker friends while school districts and others had to borrow money and pay interest on it," Barton contended.

Henkhaus in his campaign biography said that he has placed an emphasis on collecting past-due mobile home taxes. Barton contends that there is $800,000 in uncollected mobile home taxes, some owed since 1972, and Henkhaus has done little about it, other than to say he plans to crack down. Barton says that if elected, he will collect those taxes. Barton also criticized Henkhaus for giving the Bank of Edwardsville what Barton believes is an unfair advantage over other banks in bidding on county investments. Barton contends the Bank of Edwardsville solicits the bids from other banks and then decides whether it wants to top the best bid received. "The Bank of Edwardsville is doing his job for him," the Republican alleged.

Barton called for Henkhaus to answer the Price Waterhouse audit which said it found 108 accounts with $3.8 million in them which were not collecting interest. "He has never answered that, but has given two different answers on the $12 million laying idle with no interest. One was that it was a three day weekend. The other said the checks had not cleared the bank. What is the real answer?" the Republican asked.

Just to set the record straight, Barton said that his candidate biography had some faults. He said he resides at 2563 E. 27th St., not in Nameki Township, from which he moved about five years ago. He also pointed out that he has no mustache (an older picture with the biography showed him with a mustache). Barton is a member of American Legion Post 113, the National Rifle Association and the Farm Bureau, in addition to the affiliations listed in his previous candidate biography.

At a glance — GC Council actions

Other Granite City Council actions and discussions Tuesday included comments by several aldermen, who took the opportunity to remind other members about continuing unresolved issues.

Alderman Sharon Perjak, Fourth Ward, again told the council the city is spending "more and more" of its funds on city employee sick leave benefits. Attempts at reviving a new city-wide sick leave ordinance have met with both council and employee disapproval. Last council session, members declined to give department heads the authority to demand absent employees to visit a doctor selected by the city. The council itself has the authority to make such a request. Alderman Paul Fisk, Third Ward, suggested the ad hoc committee be appointed to "ride herd" on employees abusing sick leave.

Alderman Flak, a crusader for a minimum housing ordinance that will penalize violators, said his ward is experiencing renewed problems with a landlord who, in the past, allegedly purchased single-family homes to convert to smaller multi-family apartments. Landlords are able to skirt the present housing requirements due to the weak enforcement language in the current ordinance, he said. Fisk plans to meet soon with four realtors, who have been appointed by the local Board of Realtors, to study the problem. In a renewed housing cleanup effort, the council approved resolutions Tuesday for the demolition of houses at 2023 and 2025 Dewey Ave., 2925 Iowa St., 2421 and 2133 Missouri Ave.

Second Ward Alderman Sam Whitmer, chairman of the ambulance committee, called for a final accounting of ambulance bills owed by neighboring municipalities who have pulled out of the city's ambulance service, while Alderman Perjak alleged misinformation about the city's ambulance service is being circulated to hurt that program. Mrs. Perjak said residents seem unaware of the services provided by the city service or the circumstances surrounding the break between the city and township over ambulance service. A central issue in that dispute involved "short" state and federal payments for out-of-town ambulance runs, that had historically been subsidized by Granite City funds, she said. Whitmer said he plans to call a meeting of municipalities that have outstanding ambulance bills. If attempts to seek reimbursement for past runs fail, Whitmer said, the matter would go to small claims court.

Elevator funding tangle again

For the second time in two years, the Granite City Public Library has requested that the city earmark a portion of its federal revenue-sharing funds to install an elevator at the main library. The council referred the matter to the finance committee, but gave little hope to the issue going any further.

Tuesday, City Clerk Robert W. Stevens read a letter from Hal Higginbotham, library board president, formally asking for funds to install a passenger elevator for the purpose of increasing accessibility for the handicapped.

The audit collection of the main library cannot be reached without first climbing a flight of stairs at either the front or back entrances of the facility. At the rear ground floor level, patrons can request books to be sent down to them.

Alderman Sam Whitmer, Second Ward, acting as mayor pro tem Tuesday, said the library should include the expense in its own budget. The city has been notified it will receive about $195,000 less than expected in federal revenue-sharing funds this year. Most of that money goes toward salary expenses. "We need every penny of our funds," Whitmer said.

If funds were available for an elevator, Whitmer said, the money could be spent to install an elevator in city hall. Aldermen now conduct city council meetings at the Granite City Township Hall, since their meeting room is not accessible to the handicapped.

Quad-Cityans Toffant and Bailey are sheriff nominees

Sheriff Emil J. Toffant, 68, of Madison, credited by many with bringing new respect to that office, is the Democratic nominee Nov. 2 for election to a second four-year term.

Opposed by Granite Cityman Hancel Bailey, Republican, Toffant voices nothing but kind words about his ballot foe.

A veteran state police captain and district commander before retiring in 1974, the 1979-82 sheriff says he has worked hard while serving as Madison County's chief law enforcement officer. His goals have been to cut crime, improve the effectiveness of the staff, and inject professionalism into the many facets of the department.

A canine unit was added, an arson investigation unit was created, and steps were taken to foster a more open relationship with the public. Although inheriting many of the same deputies as were employed by the previous sheriff, who was convicted of a crime, Toffant weeded out some, reassigned others and sought to motivate everyone on the staff.

He instituted new personnel policies and hiring criteria, expanded unincorporated area patrols, beefed up investigative efforts and directed two majors to direct "inside" and "outside" services. He also directed the new jail, completed in 1980.

Toffant proposes: a growing role in the sheriff department for women officers; vigorous enforcement of driving laws including those against operating a vehicle while under the influence of alcohol or drug abuse; increased aid to victims of domestic crimes; and cooperation with other agencies to curb thefts and other law violations.

A former Madison city police sergeant who was later active with the Illinois state police for more than 24 years, the sheriff opposes proposals to have inmates work outside the jail.

He doubts that some who are awaiting trials could be forced to work, and says the deputies utilized to guard state prisoners would have to be diverted from other duties.

Toffant helped set up a state law detective bureau while with the state police, and personally directed several major crime investigations.

While in charge of State Police District 11, he helped thwart lawless gambling and vice in the Madison-St. Clair counties area.

He was so effective in achieving a clean-up that even the late mob boss, Frank "Buster" Workman, talked with grudging respect about "that honest policeman, Toffant," in testimony before a federal crime committee.

At the time he ran for his first term as sheriff, Toffant already had "paid his dues." He had completed 31 years of service in law enforcement, had been awarded 41 com-mentations, and could afford to remain retired. But he was prevailed upon by law enforcement friends who felt he could upgrade public confidence in the county and its sheriff department.

Never considering himself a politician, he pledged to take the office of sheriff "out of politics."

But while disdaining political life, he does have a major interest other than law enforcement. It is baseball, and he is so well-versed in it that the Cincinnati Reds hired him as a part-time scout starting in 1974.

His wife, Bess, tried to talk him out of running for sheriff four years ago but soon gave in to his intense interest in fighting for high government ideals and practices in his home county.

They have been married for 43 years and have two daughters, Emily and Nancy, as well as grandchildren.

Born in Madison, Toffant attended school in Granite City until the age of 14. His father had just died and he began working then to support his family.

After employment at a shoe company in St. Louis, he found himself out of work during the 1930s Depression and entered a Civilian Conservation Corps camp along with playing semi-professional baseball.

He was offered minor league baseball contracts by the New York Giants and Boston Braves.

Instead, he became an American Steel Foundries foreman and worked week days as a city policeman. He moved up to full-time police duty and then advanced to the highly-regarded state police in 1956.

He attended the FBI police academy and has arranged for many of his aides to do the same.

Regarded universally as a "straight arrow," Toffant held key enforcement posts during an era when "I can't have a rich man." But he will not even bend the rules enough to "fix" a traffic ticket.

Hancel Bailey, 58, a longtime policeman and adult probation officer, is seeking election as Madison County sheriff on a platform of deterring crime by avoiding coddling of law violators.

The Granite Cityman is the Republican nominee for sheriff in the general election Tuesday, Nov. 2. Bailey has high regard for the incumbent sheriff, Emil Toffant, but is urging voters to elect a Republican and says he would change some of the existing policies.

For example, he advocates requiring inmates of the "country club" Madison County jail to help grow the food which they consume.

He says this would ease the cost of operating the jail, which he estimated currently averages $30 a day per prisoner.

Gardening and similar work would serve to keep prisoners physically fit and would occupy their time, and might make some of them less willing to commit a future crime, knowing the wrongdoing would result in them being incarcerated and put to work again, Bailey believes.

Extending this concept, the GOP nominee thinks those convicted of crimes ought to perform public works projects to help governmental agencies provide needed facilities without heavy spending.

Many southern jails and prisons follow this procedure and it usually works well, he has been told. He would not oppose utilizing chain gangs of prisoners outdoors if instructed to do so.

Bailey knows first-hand about Madison County criminals and suspects, having been associated with the Granite City police department for nearly 25 years and the county probation office for seven years.

His conclusion is that jail terms do not bother many individuals and that jail stays are even somewhat attractive to a few.

Instead, there should be hard work by inmates so that they and others would be strongly motivated to live within the law and avoid imprisonment, he says.

Bailey does not blame Illinois Attorney General Tyrone Fahner for suing Madison County to halt double cell occupancy. But he is highly critical of the state law that requires catering to prisoners' desire for space and relative luxury.

"I'm against convicted criminals lying around in plush surroundings, not only because of the principle that is involved, but also because it is conducive to repeat crimes being committed," he told the Press-Record.

The former motorcycle officer, who retired from the Granite City police in 1973, thinks the department as one of the most outstanding in the nation. He was in real estate work until joining the probation staff in 1975.

Bailey advocates that the county return to use of two-man patrol cars, saying this would be more efficient and economical in the long run.

A graduate of the University of Illinois criminal investigation program, he has six years of experience in the detective division of the Granite City police force and has attended courses sponsored by the FBI and other agencies.

He believes he could work well with a present county fiscal who is a Republican, State's Attorney Don W. Veeber, and foresees their close cooperation as an antidote to drug abuse and illegal drug trafficking in the region.

Bailey has been conducting an active campaign and says he is stressing positive factors regarding his experience and his proposals.

His work has shown him that many persons figure they have a good chance of avoiding detection and capture if they commit a crime; they also think that, if caught, they are likely to "beat the rap."

If convicted, such persons of ten can adjust to their jail or prison conditions; they consider the conditions entirely acceptable, Bailey says.

It is this reasoning that, in his opinion, leads to recidivism who are locked up, and citizens have a chance to go to downtown Granite City, or downtown St. Louis, or wherever they wish to go," Bailey asserts.

"The problem with the present situation is that the role of the policeman is a way from the crime, due to his fear of crime, and criminals walk the streets freely."

"I would like to reverse things so that it is the criminals who are locked up, and citizens have a chance to go to downtown Granite City, or downtown St. Louis, or wherever they wish to go," Bailey asserts.

Former reporter addresses law conference in New York

A former member of the Press-Record, editorial staff, W. F. "Mick" Strange made a presentation at a New York City seminar last week.

The seminar was entitled "Marketing and Selling of Legal Service." It was sponsored by Georgetown University Law Center, Continuing Legal Education Division.

Held at the Harley House, the seminar was attended by 35 senior partners in the law firms ranging in size from 15 to more than 250 attorneys.

Strange was invited to present ideas on acceptable promotion methods, setting advertising objectives for professionals and selecting a format for a news release, plus "what is new" from the press writer's point of view.

Strange was asked to participate after Georgetown representatives reviewed material he has recently finished for LAW Ltd., most still in a draft form.

On June 1, Strange accepted a position as executive vice-president for the St. Louis-based corporation, LAW Ltd. He spent 12 years with the Press-Record prior to accepting the post.

Georgetown University is conducting six seminars of this nature throughout the United States.

"Most attorneys have an excellent command of the English language, but unfortunately, write in 'legalese,'" Strange said.

"Many firms simply do not realize the potential for good press as within their own firms. Some of the firms represented have been around for 60 or more years."

They recognize the need for a total marketing program, not just news release," he told the attorneys.

Their major problem is they just are not sure how to do a total service marketing program, let alone advertising in good taste," Strange said.

"ALtered STATES" STARRING AT SUE The film "Altered States" (R), directed by Ken Russell, will be shown Oct. 28 at 1:30 p.m., Oct. 29 at 7 p.m., and Oct. 30 at 7 p.m. in the Deja Vu Room of the University Center, Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

Tickets are $1 for SUE students and $1.50 for non-students.

Actor William Hurt portrays a college professor obsessed with probing the deepest of one's subconscious mind. He resorts to the use of mushrooms and strange herbal concoctions for a medicine man. The results of his adventures are led incredibly vivid on the screen.

Antique auction to aid museum

By BILL WINTER

History and antiques have a lot in common with each other, and the old Six-Mile Historical Society has chosen as its principal fund-raising event a major antique show and sale this Saturday and Sunday.

In addition, the Old Six-Mile Historical Society has a supply of books, sheet music and records for sale. And the Bischoffs will have glass items in their booth.

At 5 p.m. Saturday, Cam Jansen of Hazelwood will demonstrate wood stripping and refinishing.

Refreshments, with home-made pies and cakes spotlighted, will be sold throughout the two-day event.

Donald Gargac is president of the historical society.

Mrs. Georgia Engleke, a founder of the group, commented today, "Mr. and Mrs. Bischoff for a number of years have exhibited antiques in many states."

"They were asked last March to coordinate our antique show, since they were acquainted with what it takes to get a show together."

"They have chosen quality dealers who will have outstanding merchandise."

The Bischoffs emphasize that this is not a flea market but an antique show. Collectors will be able to add to their possessions.

"Others will have an opportunity to add to an item they may have received from a grandparent, parent or friend."

"There will be antiques which many people have heard or read about but have never seen."

The Bischoffs said, "We are proud of the exhibitors and their special items, which we know will be of great interest to Quad-Citizens."

"The show can be a success if everyone participates. All money will go to establishing a museum here. We ask for everyone's cooperation."

economic development activities in the county.

According to Ridenour, a county firm which he declined to disclose has been doing business with the company requesting the loan. Because of rising costs in shipping material, the local firm has asked the out-of-state company, located in Pennsylvania, to move to the county.

Ridenour told the board that the parent firm is receptive to the idea. He said the total start-up cost for the new plant is $650,000, and that the firm is requesting 10 percent of the total project cost in a Community Development loan.

Ridenour said the plant could be in operation by mid-December and will employ 15 people initially, all of whom will be hired from the area. When fully in operation, the plant will employ approximately 75 people.

"The firm also had an offer to move across the river to Missouri," Board Member William Haine, Alton, said. "If we turn this down, we could be letting them move to Missouri."

Ridenour did not say what site the firm, whose parent company is Shasta Inc. (not related to the soft drink), is considering in the county, but Board Chairman Nelson Hagnauer said the city of Madison is interested in becoming the location of the new plant.

In another matter concerning county industry, the board approved a request for $900,000 in industrial revenue bonds for Coyle Leasing.

The legislative committee had sent this request to the full board after meeting last month with officials of the company, who want to build a warehouse outside of Granite City near the intersection of Illinois 162 and State Aid 35.

The 27,000 square foot building will be used to store pipe, valves, fittings and other industrial products, and company officials have said the expansion would increase the firm's labor force from 18 to 40.

Under state law, the county is able to issue the federally tax-exempt bonds. This reduces the expanding firm's borrowing costs. The borrowing firm, not the county, is liable for payment of its bonds.

amount to $7,000 or $8,000 per prosecutor.

St. Clair County state's attorneys make substantially more than Madison County prosecutors, Weber argued to the committee.

"There's no comparison to the quality of prosecutors (in Madison County) that they have there (in St. Clair County)," he said.

Weber added that there is a danger Madison County lawyers could be hired away to St. Clair County.

Weber also told the committee that his prosecutors brought in about $760,000 in 1982, up from $610,000 in 1980. The Finance Committee took no action on Weber's suggestion.

the cases should be closed by the first of the year.

The 1983 budget for Weber's office is $519,000, compared to $514,000 this year. The problem, he said, is that $10,000 of this year's budget must go to automatic raises of $1,000 each for 10 secretaries.

"This leaves no money to give raises to attorneys, which Weber believes should members attended the meeting called to order by Commander Norma Darnell.

Members approved a $25 donation to the Tri-Cities Area United Way annual fund drive.

The group also voted to give $25 to assist the Amvets in transporting the Granite City High School North Band to Veterans Day services.

The Navy Mothers plan to present a wreath during those ceremonies Nov. 11 on the Granite City Hall lawn.

Hartigan, Edgar, Burris favored; Stevenson and Cosentino feuding

SPRINGFIELD — More than ever this election year, it's every candidate for himself.

Just about the only thing political prognosticators agree on at this stage of the campaign is that Illinois voters, as has become their practice, will be splitting their ballots on election day. Virtually nobody is anticipating a sweep for either the Republicans or the Democrats.

The last time that either party swept the field with a full complement of state offices on the ticket was in 1964, when President Lyndon Johnson was clobbering Republican Barry Goldwater all across the country. In Illinois the Democratic tide elected Otto Kerner as governor, Sam Shapiro as lieutenant governor, Paul Powell as secretary of state, Mike Howlett as auditor, and William Clark as attorney general.

Since then ticket-splitting has been the order of election day. In 1968, for example, with Richard Nixon carrying Illinois for president, the state's voters returned Everett Dirksen to the U.S. Senate and elected Republicans Richard Ogilvie governor and William Scott, attorney general. But they also chose three Democrats, Paul Simon for lieutenant governor, Paul Powell for secretary of state, and Howlett for auditor.

Voters have been picking and choosing ever since. The last time all state offices, plus a U.S. Senate seat, were on the ballot — in 1978 — they went even: three Republicans and three Democrats. Republican winners were Charles Percy for senator, James Thompson for governor and Scott for attorney general. Democratic victors were Alan Dixon for secretary of state, Roland Burris for comptroller and Jerry Cosentino for treasurer.

Three of the 1978 winners — Thompson, Burris and Cosentino — are on the ballot this year. Few in politics expect that all three will again be winners, nor is it anticipated that all three will be losers. The way the races are rated now, Burris looks like a winner, Cosentino a loser and Thompson a toss-up.

One of the factors that makes the state races difficult to figure is that everyone is running an independent campaign. With the exception of governor and lieutenant governor, whose fates are linked by the 1978 constitution, each candidate is, in effect, in control of his own destiny. The tendency for split voting, the lessening influence of the party organizations and crisis-cross currents of national and state issues actually give the individual candidate no alternative but to go it on his own. No coasting riding this year.

There are also some unique factors unforeseen at the start of the campaign. On the Democratic side, gubernatorial candidate Adlai Stevenson and secretary of state candidate Cosentino are virtually campaigning against each other.

Stevenson's fierce attacks on the state-backed loan program sponsored jointly by Thompson and Cosentino has left Stevenson and Cosentino at distant odds and there is no hint of a reconciliation. Despite the continuing Stevenson criticism, Cosentino has made the joint loan program a basic plank in his campaign, heatedly denying it primarily benefits political associates of Thompson and hails it as a major weapon to fight high unemployment.

Ironically, Cosentino's opponent, Jim Edgar, who was appointed secretary of state by Thompson, is quietly keeping some political distance between his campaign and Thompson. Edgar is about as independent of Thompson as Cosentino is of Stevenson, so the secretary of state race can genuinely be described as a race within a race.

In the attorney general's contest, another Thompson appointee, Ty Fahner, is avoiding any unnecessary association with the governor. Fahner is considered the underdog in his race against former lieutenant governor Neil Hartigan. Hartigan constantly reminds voters that Fahner is a Thompson appointee and says this makes it impossible for Fahner to run the attorney general's office with the degree of independence the voters have a right to expect.

In the comptroller's race, Burris exploits to a limited extent the well-known fact that his opponent, former state representative Cal Skinner, was recruited for the spot by Thompson. Skinner, however, has taken stands on some issues in direct conflict with Thompson and could be having some success in presenting himself as his own man.

About the only race where difference with or association with the gubernatorial candidate is not a significant factor is that for state treasurer, Republican John Dailey and Democratic state Sen. James Donnewald are both on their respective tickets without any important help from the standard-bearers. Nor do they appear to have any important differences between them.

Perhaps the biggest worry for Donnewald and Dailey is just how the voters will split their ballots. There are five offices to decide and if the voters go for two on two on the other four offices, the treasurer's race could be the tiebreaker.

For the record, four years ago in a similar situation they went Democratic.

Openings in 5 craft classes

The Granite City Park District is announcing openings in some of the special interest classes for adults. Many of the craft classes have been filled to capacity. However, there still is room for persons interested in the following classes.

Ornament roses flower arrangements — Basic techniques will be used to make ornate roses. This process will be simplified in order to complete a floral arrangement using the flowers students make in the class period. The vase is included in the cost of the class and the arrangement will be completed that evening.

Christmas ribbon with scented soap — A soap decoration to hang anywhere in the home. In this class, a rope ornament also will be made that features a tiny white dove with dried flowers.

Miss Breezy Brick — A brick will be decorated with ribbons and stuffed sticking creature to place on the mantel to hold matches or to be used as a doorknob. Cornhusk flowers — Different varieties of cornhusk flowers will be made. The instructor also will conduct a discussion on flower arranging during this class. "Christmas treasures" ornaments — In this class, three different ornaments will be completed. The ivory-colored ornaments will be painted with Christmas designs in red and green and finished off with a bright red velvet ribbon. They may be used to enhance a tree or make an ideal gift.

All the above crafts are on display in the park office. Registration must be made in person and the cost of the crafts paid at that time. Additional details may be obtained by calling the park office at 677-9098.

INTRUDER RUNS
Rudy Fyle, 1206 Granite Ave., reported last week that his brother, Robin Smith, awakened at the home after hearing a noise and saw a man in the kitchen who ran out the front door, got on a bicycle and rode away. The intruder was described as heavyset with dark hair. He was wearing a baseball cap and a blue jean jacket.

Matthew 6:13 "Lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil."

Jesus taught us to pray for deliverance from evil. We know that evil abounds everywhere. There is no refuge, no hiding place, except in the Lord.

The fact is that many people do not pray for deliverance. They simply accept Satan's attacks against their loved ones, their homes, and themselves.

We are taught to pray in faith and believe, and Christ will answer our prayers. This certainly includes prayers for deliverance from evil.

When your circumstances overwhelm you, why not try Jesus' Word? Let me say this: Be ready for an answer for the Lord hours and answers the prayers of his people.

We will hear you pray, today.

★★★ Cardinals are World Series Champs ★★★

The Cardinals are world champions! How sweet it sounds. World champions. It has a real nice ring to it doesn't it.

The 1982 World Champion baseball Cardinals will go down in record books as "the team that Whitey built." The Cardinals reached baseball's pinnacle playing Whitey Herzog's aggressive (sometimes even reckless) style of baseball. Wednesday evening "Whitey ball" soundly defeated the slugging Milwaukee Brewers 6-3 in the seventh game of the World Series. It was Whitey's genius, but it was the players' who were ultimately responsible for clinching the Series. Every Cardinal was instrumental in the victory.

Perhaps the most obvious is Darrell Porter. Porter has played what may be the best October baseball ever, capturing the National League MVP and the Series MVP honors. He's a gem who shined most brilliantly when his team needed him the most.

And Keith Hernandez... well, he received what had to be the best birthday gift ever Wednesday night in the form of the Series victory. Hernandez, who suffered through an early Series batting slump, came on in the final three games to literally lift the Cardinals to the championship. It was Hernandez's hit which tied the game in the sixth inning.

Third baseman Ken Oberkfell was the most consistent Cardinal at the plate throughout the series. Oberkfell led the team with a .350 plus average, second only in the Series to Milwaukee's Robin Yount.

As for Ozzie Smith, his defensive prowess has kept the Cardinals in the running from the beginning. Ozzie's exciting style of baseball is an inspiration to all those who watch his hit-saving catches.

It seems as though Tommy Herr has been battling injuries throughout the season. His gutsy play and contributions to the Cardinal infield at second base are unmatched in Eastern Division.

As for the Cardinal outfield of Lonnie Smith, Willie McGee and George Hendrick, there is not a quicker outfield in baseball today. All three have proven their value with stunning catches in the Series.

In the beginning of the season, the Cardinal pitching staff was suspect. Only veterans Bob Forsch and Joaquin Andujar had proven themselves. But as the season progressed and the Cardinals retained their first place standing in the NL East, it was apparent that Jim Kaat, Doug Bair, John Stuper and Steve Mura were for real. It was a pleasant surprise indeed.

And as for Bruce Sutter, not much more can be said about the bearded wonder. He's the BEST relief pitcher in baseball.

Congratulations Cards on your Series win. It was as exciting as those players who participated in it. You provided the St. Louis area and your fans worldwide with the best eight months of baseball as ever seen. Thank you, and may your winter be a long and enjoyable time to savor your championship.

Depicted in the photo graphs were highlights of the final World Series game. Beginning below and moving clockwise is Mike Ramsey's safe slide into third base during the sixth inning. Ramsey pinch ran for Gene Tenace who pinch batted for Oberkfell. Also in the photograph, Lonnie Smith scampers home for another Cardinal run.

Cardinal shortstop Ozzie Smith doubles out former Cardinal Ted Simmons to put a halt to the Brewers' sixth inning spree.

Pandemonium on the field following the Cardinals' World Series win. The scoreboard in the background records the win for posterity.

Pete Vukovich stopped to tie both his shoes before Milwaukee manager Harvey Kuenn relieved the Milwaukee hurler.

Fireworks behind Busch Stadium signify the Cardinals' World Series victory.

Warrior kickers defeat Collinsville; win; 4-0

By NANCY WEIL
of the Press-Record

COLLINSVILLE — Seldom has revenge been so sweet as a trophy. The Granite South soccer team made its 4-0 shutout over the Kahoks Tuesday night look easy. Probably nobody expected it to be such a clear victory; the Kahoks are after all one of only two teams that have kept the Warriors out of the state tournament in 10 years of play — the other team was Granite North.

Last year, South was edged by the Kahoks 1-0 in sectionals. The Kahoks won the state tournament, making them the only other Southern Illinois team besides South to ever win the trophy.

Momentum was the main factor working for South. After playing three sluggish games in the past week, the Warriors came onto the field ready to assert themselves. It took a mere 2:11

"South played at just a phenomenal pace. They outnumbered our defense. They outnumbered our offense. I didn't think they were capable of playing such a match."

Jim Stranz
Kahok Soccer Coach

for South to make its point.

Bill Hency scored on an assist from Fritz Brewer after taking the ball down the field on the left side. It looked like the Warriors just shuffled through the defense.

Collinsville coach Jim Stranz seemed amazed by the Warriors play. "South played at just a phenomenal pace. They outnumbered our defense. They outnumbered our offense. I didn't think they were capable of playing such a match."

He added that he did not think any team was capable of keeping up such a pace for 80 minutes.

During the last few years, South has "showed tentativeness on our field," Stranz said. "But we couldn't do anything tonight with three men on the ball."

Two or three Warriors would stick with the ball on each play, making it difficult for Collinsville to maintain possession.

That was the strategy before the game. South coach Gene Baker had a lengthy meeting with the team before the St. Louis University High School game. The Warriors had been playing below their capabilities and Baker was concerned. Emphasis on "tactical preparation" helped the team for the SLUH game and that strategy was extended against Collinsville.

"The big thing is that I'm happy for the kids because it was a decisive win over a team of that caliber," Baker said of the Collinsville game.

Baker added that he was "especially happy for the seniors. It's a good feeling."

Unlike most other games this season in which two or three players have most dominated scoring and assisting, four different Warriors scored a goal against Collinsville and the entire team contributed to the win.

Nathan Crane assisted Phil Popmarkoff at 19:07 when he sent the ball into the center and Popmarkoff sent a hard shot over goalkeeper Marc Parker's head. The Warriors took their 2-0 lead into the second quarter.

Jim Gibson scored unassisted from right center with :41 left in the half. About four minutes into the third, South came up with No. 4 when Popmarkoff sent the ball to John Menendez who shot for the goal. South persisted and very nearly scored again in the fourth when Ed Cowley dribbled into the area, but good not get a shot before the defense scrambled back.

Even playing on the rain-slickened field did little to hamper the Warriors who took 19 shots to Collinsville's 7. Baker echoed Stranz's thoughts that South played incredibly well. It was Baker said, a "meaningful" game. Brewer and Scott Grove played probably their best games ever, Baker said.

The Warriors finish their regular season tomorrow night at Belleville. Althoff. The junior varsity game is scheduled to begin at 4 p.m.

North puts it all together; sinks West, Althoff

By ROGER KRAMER
of the Press-Record

Have the Granite City North Steeler soccer team found the key to victory?

Bob Kehoe, the Stealers' coach, has every inclination to think that way. If defeating Belleville East 5-0 Tuesday at Granite City wasn't enough, the Stealers came back to destroy Belleville Althoff 10-1 Wednesday at Belleville.

"It's amazing. We were struggling at the beginning of the season just to score goals, and in two days, we scored two goals. I'd like nothing better than to take some of the credit for this, but I don't know if I really can," Kehoe said.

Kehoe can take a legitimate share of the credit for the turnaround. He had been trying to correct the Stealers' mistakes all season, but the Stealers really haven't responded until this week.

"If we keep playing the way we have in the last two games, in my eyes, we will be playing the game they way it should be played," Kehoe said. "I'm elated with the way we played. If we played like this over the whole season, we would have been in every game."

"We're starting to come together at the right time. You have to give a great deal of credit to all the players. They're passing the ball well and playing good defense."

As a result of the Stealers' late season surge, North is now 10-2-2 this season. North plays at Hazelwood East at 4 p.m. Friday to close the regular season. Only a varsity game will be played. "It will be interesting to see what happens when we come Friday," Kehoe said. "They gave Granite South a good game, and I think we can too if we play like we have been."

G.C. NORTH 10

Once the Stealers started rolling, they couldn't stop scoring goals in this one-sided Gateway East Conference game.

Benny Nolan, who scored six goals and three assists in last two games, opened the game with a goal off a pass from Brian Levin with 15 minutes left in the first quarter.

Eleven minutes later, Nolan took a pass from Steve Trittschuh and scored on a breakaway.

North only scored one goal in the second quarter. Tim Dean took a long throw-in from Trittschuh and put it in the net for the third goal.

North came alive with four goals in the third quarter. Dean started the quarter with a goal off a Nolan pass just a minute into the quarter. Levin took another pass from Nolan for another goal with five minutes left.

Two minutes later, Mike Macko took a Jim Burton pass for the third goal, and Dave Sheik closed the quarter with a last-minute goal. Levin picked up the assist.

After Rick Reininger scored Althoff's only goal with 17 minutes left in the game and North removed all but three of its starters, the Stealers started another scoring string.

With 13 minutes left, Levin scored with Trittschuh getting the assist. Mike Dennis then scored two goals with nine and six minutes left to close the scoring. Dennis' first goal was unassisted while Nolan got the assist on the second goal.

"The team just jelled. There was a great deal of ball movement," Kehoe said. "We've got a lot stronger defense than we had at the beginning. There's just no substitute for experience."

North outshot the Crusaders 20-9. "We kept the ball in play most of the time. Once we got going, the goals just kept coming," Kehoe said. "We worked our flankers well, and we mixed it up well with some breakaways down the middle. Sheik timed the ball perfectly on his breakaway, and it was a good goal for us," Kehoe said.

G.C. NORTH 5

BELLEVILLE EAST 0
Nolan began his outstanding week Tuesday in North's final home regular season game with four goals. Nolan also got a lot of help from his teammates.

"He's a fine player," Kehoe said. "Benny can't do it all by himself though. It takes 10 other players to make the good passes and other good plays. Tonight, he happened to be the guy making the runs and getting the ball. It was a great team effort."

Nolan should be especially appreciative of Dean, who picked up the assists on Nolan's first three goals.

Nolan and Dean combined for their first goal with 2:33 remaining in the first quarter. The Stealers held that 1-0 lead through the first half.

The two combined for their second goal with 16:19 left in the third quarter. Only 38 seconds later, Dean and Nolan scored on a breakaway. Dean dribbled down the right side, and found Nolan in the middle. Nolan fired the shot in the goal.

Levin blasted a direct free kick in the goal with 10:58 left in the game for the fourth goal.

Nolan's final goal came from an assist from an unusual source — North reserve goalkeeper Steve Branding, brother of starting goalkeeper Rich Branding.

Steve Branding's kick out of the goal area flew to the right side of the field, and Nolan dribbled the ball down the field for the final goal. Nolan almost had a fifth goal with 4:22 left, but he was offside and the goal was taken away.

Although Kehoe wasn't concerned about the goal being taken away in this game, he was concerned about similar goals being taken away in closer games. "I thought he had a legitimate fifth goal because he was ahead of the defense, but he was behind the ball in a tight game, a call like that would have hurt us. I don't mean to criticize the officials though," Kehoe said.

"Boy, he had a day," Kehoe exclaimed about Nolan.

"They did a good job. The defense did a super job, and we had control of the ball at midfield. It was an all around super effort, and it was a morale booster. Hopefully, now that we got a taste of how good soccer is played, we will continue to play good soccer through the play-offs," Kehoe said.

The Stealers outshot the Lancers 17-3, and North goalie Rich Branding made saves on all three shots. "The ball, I've been trying to tell them to get good movement off the ball. We had good movement on the ball in both games," Kehoe said.

"All year, I've been trying to tell them to get good movement off the ball. We had good movement on the ball in both games," Kehoe said.

Warriors host Hannibal

By ALAN L. GERSTENECKER

Sports Editor

of the Press-Record

The Granite City High School South football team will be looking for its first win of the season Friday night as they host the Hannibal (Mo.) Pirates for South's Homecoming.

The Warriors go into the game with an 0-4 record, while the Pirates are 4-3. Saturday, in another grid battle, the Stealers take on Cahokia at Granite City South's field. That game, like Friday's game, is scheduled for 7:30 p.m.

Friday's Warrior-Hannibal game promises to be an air battle between South's John Linhart and the Pirates' Scott Rumpy. Linhart leads the Gateway East Conference with 782 yards passing for a 50.6 percentage, while Hannibal's Rumpy has completed 90 percent of his passes. Hannibal is an independent.

With the support of South's Homecoming behind him, South's coach, Jerry McKechnie, is optimistic about his team's chances Friday.

"Our defense looked better last week.

They played pretty well," McKechnie said.

"We played them (Hannibal) pretty tough last year. We feel we can get this one," McKechnie said.

Last year, the Pirates defeated the Warriors 25-15.

"It's no secret. We're gonna come out throwing," McKechnie said. "We're gonna have to capitalize on their mistakes."

Supporting the Warrior air attack Friday will be Ken Portell, McKechnie said.

"We hope to throw, but if there's a problem there, we'll go with Portell on the ground," McKechnie said.

The Pirates' biggest ground gainer this season is Steve Oiklis. Oiklis is averaging just under five yards a carry.

"It should really be an air show," McKechnie said. "Hannibal's coach John Bringer. With all the throwing we expect, it might take four hours to play the game," Bringer said jokingly.

Defensively, both teams will feature a 3-2 line and linebackers formation. From the Warriors, however, "expect some surprises," McKechnie said.

GRANITE CITY — Granite City North's Jim Robertson led the Steeler boys' cross country team to an easy 15-0 victory over Granite City South on North's home, 3-mile course, Monday.

And the Warrior girls, led by Lora Wiser, returned the favor by beating North 16-39.

Wiser finished the 2.25 mile course with a time of 13:12.

But North's boys victory was the most impressive, because they shut out the Warriors by taking the first seven places.

Robertson won with a slow time of 16:08, 42 seconds in front of teammate Kenny Meyer, who finished second at 16:50.

Steeler coach Pete Robinson said, "He would run better if he had some competition."

The Steeler's John Peters took third place at 16:38, Bill Schaefer finished fourth at 17:03 and Kenny Kalka took fifth at 17:12.

The Warrior's first finisher, Todd

Scrum, finished in eighth place with a time of 17:51.

The Warrior girls were not quite as overpowering as the Steeler boys, although they did take five of the first six places.

The Warrior's Mary Bisch took second place, behind her teammate and first place finisher Wiser, at 13:47.

Warriors Michelle Shoemaker and Connie Williamson finished third and fourth, respectively.

But a strong finish by the Steeler's Vicki Schaefer averted a Warrior sweep. Schaefer finished with a time of 15:01, one second slower than South's Williamson, and three seconds faster than South's sixth place finisher Paula Rozkycki.

The Steeler's David Birkhead won the boys' freshman-sophomore race with a time of 18:16.

The races all seemed a little dull to the coaches, who both accurately predicted the outcome of each race.

"This was probably the worst meet we've had in 10 years," Robinson said.

Robinson meant that North and South usually field some pretty even teams.

Mary Romine, who usually runs third or fourth for the Warriors, did not compete Monday because she hurt her ankle, according to Warrior coach Rich Harmon.

Warriors defeat Hazelwood

By ALAN L. GERSTENECKER
Sports Editor
of the Press-Record

GRANITE CITY — Despite an admittedly lackluster team performance Monday afternoon, the Granite City High School South varsity soccer team defeated Hazelwood East 2-1 in overtime at the Gauntlet.

Warrior coach Gene Baker attributed his team's lethargic play to the game's scheduling change due to the cancellation of the jayvee contest.

"We usually need at least an hour to gear our kids up," Baker said. "The change didn't give our guys the time to do that," he said.

The schedule change resulted from a request by Hazelwood East because of that school's open house ceremonies Monday evening. Administrators at that school feared that if both games were played, teachers, coaches and administrators attending the game would not return in time for the open house ceremonies. Consequently, the jayvee match was cancelled and the varsity match was played earlier than scheduled.

Following a scoreless first half, Hazelwood scored with 12:57 remaining in the third quarter. Phil Luddecke's shot from the left side was dead center of the goal. South's Jeb Blasingame made a diving leap to get the ball. But as he fell to the ground, the ball rolled from his grasp and rolled into the net.

Hazelwood's goal came at a time that proved beneficial to the Warriors. Luddecke's goal came with more than 32 minutes remaining in the game. Had it come much later, the Warriors may have slept through the entire game. But as it was, the goal came early enough to enable the Warriors to retaliate and tie the game.

South's Phil Popmarkoff evened the score in the fourth quarter as he took an assist from Nathan Crane with only 15:29 remaining. Popmarkoff's shot was just out of reach of the outstretched arms of Hazelwood's Danny Koch.

By this time, the Warriors were playing up to their potential, but due to defensive efforts by Hazelwood defenders, and in particular Jim Schwab, the Warriors were unable to score, sending the game into overtime.

"Schwab's a smart player and a dangerous shooter," Baker said. "He's probably one of the best players in Missouri," Baker said. That comes as a big compliment from Baker, coach who has seen some of the best Missouri teams this fall. Similarly, Hazelwood's coach Dale Harmon had equal praise for his sturdy defender.

"Obviously Jim's our best player. He's our play maker," Harmon said. It took the revitalized Warriors just 54 seconds in the first overtime period to break the 1-1 deadlock.

South's forward John Menendez beat the defense with a shot in front of a congested Hazelwood goal mouth.

Despite South's apparent lethargic play in the early going, the Warriors out shot Hazelwood in regulation play 15-4. Although the saves were identical at three each, the Warriors managed five corner kicks to Hazelwood's two.

Hazelwood led with 24 fouls to the Warriors' 18. Offensively, the Warriors committed one more offside penalty than Hazelwood, two.

The victory was South's 20th of the season. They have lost two — one to Bishop DuBourg and the other to St. Mary's.

Monday's win over Hazelwood improved the Warriors record to 4-2 against Missouri teams.

The loss dropped Hazelwood's record to 8-7-1.

Trojanettes defeat Steelers, Explorer spikers

MADISON — The Madison volleyball team may not living up to the standards of last year's 16-8 season, but with two victories this week, the Trojanettes have proven they are a team to reckoned with.

Monday night the Trojans defeated much improved Granite City North 5-15, 16-14, 15-11. In that game, the Trojanettes started slow as they dropped the first game, but came strong the final two games to secure the victory.

"We were a little nervous that first game," said Carol Cole, Madison's

coach. "Our spikers put it all together these last two games."

"Paula (Wise, North's coach) should be commended," Cole said. "She's done so much with that team in one year," Cole said.

Similarly, Wise was as complimentary of Madison's team.

"Madison played some good volleyball these last two matches. They deserved to win. They played the best under pressure," Wise said.

Tuesday evening, Madison added another victory to its win column with first and third game victories over Alton-Marquette.

The Trojanettes defeated Marquette 15-7 the first game, lost the second game 15-8, and came back the final game to win 15-9. The win boosts Madison's season record to 6-8.

The Steelers are 8-13 on the season. "We played a beautiful match against Marquette," Cole said. "Things are beginning to click for some of our people."

In another volleyball match Tuesday night, the Steelers dropped their 13th game of the season to Belleville Althoff 16-14 and 15-7.

Madison, Granite City North and Granite City South, and Venice each begin regional volleyball play Tuesday, Oct. 26. A complete list of the games and times will appear in Monday's Press-Record sports section.

Correction

Al Pregel should have been credited for Granite City North's second quarter touchdown rather than John Kindle. Pregel's one-yard touchdown was his third of the season. The Press-Record regrets the error.

Venice spikers defeat Lovejoy

The Venice girls' volleyball team defeated Lovejoy 15-4 and 15-8 Tuesday night at Venice.

Coech Ken Perkins said he that the entire team "played real well. It was generally just a pretty good team effort."

The Red Devilettes were sparked by the serving skills of Cassandra White, who got nine points in the first game and seven in the second as she served.

Rosie Harmon sprained her right ankle in the junior varsity match, which Venice lost 15-13, 15-15 and 7-15. Miss Harmon was supposed to play in the varsity match, but Perkins had to bring in sophomore Kim Bell to take her place. "She did pretty well," Perkins said of Miss Bell.

Sports of all Sorts

By AL BARNES

In the July issue of the Press-Record of this year, in my "Sports of All Sorts" column, which was entitled "Let's Make Soccer a National Sport," I urged that Coach Bob Gueller of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville soccer empire be "told to recruit and then sign high school kickers from this section of Illinois."

At the time, I got a lot of guff from my former colleagues with whom I had worked as Sports Information Director at SIUE for 14 years. They maintained that the quality of high school soccer players in St. Louis ... City and County ... was uniformly and consistently much better than that from southwestern Illinois.

At the time, I had argued for a position similar to that of United States pros on the play-for-pay teams: a definite number of American players must be used on the starting lineups be adopted for the college ranks here in our territory.

Now, with the terrific showings made by Granite City South High's Warriors in their recent tournament over the best from St. Louis, as ample proof that this side of the Mississippi has progressed to the point where they should be recruited ... and signed ... by our own university, the SIUE Cougars.

The clincher, I think, for my position came with the news that little Marquette High of Alton had demolished the McClellan North Stars several days after the Warriors had beat them, 1-0, in the final of the Tournament of Champions.

McClellan's head coach, Ray Stahl who is a real pro in my estimation, was highly complimentary of Coach Gene Baker's Granite City South eleven: "They have a well-knit and hard-playing squad. They deserved to win."

On his team's loss to Marquette, however, Stahl was a bit rueful. "I wanted another game to fill in a cancellation and chose Marquette. It wasn't that I thought they'd be peaches, but really they did surprise me ... and, you can count on it ... they'd give any other so-called ranked teams a fit, too," he stated somewhat sadly.

I watched most of the Warriors' 2-1 victory over Hazelwood (Missouri) East High, Monday afternoon and I was, frankly, very much impressed by the high grade soccer Baker's Bunch played. One is immediately struck by the unselfish play of the Warriors. It is impossible not to be impressed by the all-out effort of the 11 South players on the field at any time.

I was amazed at the sense of anticipation ... of Hazelwood East's play exhibited by the South defense ... and, in fact, by the entire Warrior squad. Everyone, it is safe to say, plays "defense" for South. Yes, I was impressed. And, yes, I strongly urged Coach Bob Gueller and his new assistant, Tom Howe, to spend more time scouting the play of not only Granite City South, but Bob Kehoe's North eleven, too.

'Senator Sam' opposed by Moulton

State Senator Sam M. Vadala, 67, Edwardsville Democrat, once again is running a "positive" campaign, focusing on his efforts to serve the 56th District. And once again he is the favorite to win.

A candidate for re-election Nov. 2, he has represented the Quad-City area in the Illinois General Assembly for 16 years—four years in the House and the last 12 in the Senate.

"Senator Sam" says, "I am a full-time legislator and my only special interest is each citizen. I stand for service, as my slogan says, and I have tried to be concerned, caring and effective in my efforts for the people. I offer experience and understanding and energy."

"I have devoted my full time, and overtime, to the development and prosperity of this region, and feel I have done everything in my power to be worthy of the confidence voters have vested in me."

"In the campaign, I have been emphasizing my record and the issues that face this area. And my performance in office certainly has been strengthened by the strong support voters have given me."

"Although no one could doubt my loyalty and commitment to the Democratic Party, the broad base of support I have received from citizens of all political persuasions has been very helpful."

"I listen to my constituents. No phone call goes unanswered. I respond to all correspondence, either by letter, meetings or personal contact."

"I have had the privilege of standing up for the people I represent before all types of state, county and local agencies to make sure our system responds to their needs."

"I will keep working day and night to strengthen our district economically, so we can further grow as we emerge from the current recession. Our duty is not to point fingers and fix personal blame, but to see that problems are solved and progress is made."

Cornerstones of his past service have included development of the Tri-City Regional Port and airport sites, construction of new highways in this community, and expansion of the facilities at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

The latest campus project is a mammoth multi-purpose physical education building, due to be completed next year.

Vadala, who defeated an opponent in the March 1982 Democratic primary, was born in Detroit.

He attended St. Boniface School in Edwardsville, Sacred Heart School in Pana, and Pana Township High School. After marrying his wife, Mary, he settled in Edwardsville; they have five children.

The senator was in private business before starting his legislative service with the fall 1966 election. He served with the 29th Infantry Division in World War II, receiving the combat aviator's badge, three bronze campaign stars, the

SAM VADALABENE

European-Mediterranean ribbon, good conduct medal and presidential unit citation.

Vadala has been an Edwardsville Township auditor and a member of the staff of former State Auditor Michael Howlett and the late State Superintendent of Public Instruction George T. Wilkins. He was elected as a town auditor for 1965-66.

Chairman of Illinois Senate committees on executive appointments, administration and veterans' affairs, he is vice chairman of appropriations, insurance, executive and higher education committees.

Groups he chairs are the Cities and Villages Municipal Problems Commission, the Commission to Visit and Examine State Institutions and the Illinois Mississippi River Parkway Commission.

Vadala is vice chairman of both the Illinois Atomic Energy Commission and Illinois Motor Vehicle and Insurance Commission, and secretary of the Legislative Audit Commission.

Chairman of the Legislative Advisory Committee to the Southern Illinois Metropolitan and Regional Planning Commission, he also is active on other panels related to his senatorial service, including the Transportation Study Commission, Legislative Space Needs Commission, Energy Resources Commission, Agent Orange Study Commission, Illinois National Guard Study Commission and St. Louis Port Advisory Council.

Selected as outstanding environmental legislator of the year, outstanding senator in the opinion of various organizations, an honorary riverboat pilot and the recipient of an honorary doctor of jurisprudence degree, he has been called "father of Illinois city centers," "father of the bikeways" and "Mr. Library."

The first elected public official to be chosen for the Illinois Knights of Columbus Crusade of Courage Award, Vadala also has been honored by the Illinois Association of County Superintendents of Schools.

A member of the Elks, Moose and the American Legion, he is state legislative director of the Italian-American War Veterans and Senate legislative director of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Richard "Rick" Moulton Jr., 28, is making his first try at elective office in the Nov. 2 general election.

The Moro Republican, who is waging a primarily independent campaign, opposes State Senator Sam Vadala, a Democrat. They are the nominees in the 56th Illinois Legislative District.

Moulton entered politics in 1981 with the circulation of petitions for state representative. He was persuaded to run instead for state senator but says GOP financial and political support for him has been scarce.

He views his prospects next month as "uncertain," adding that the campaign will give him experience helpful in future elections.

He indicates he is setting his sights on "four years from now."

The candidate says he has been running his own campaign and has been active—making personal appearances, preparing signs, responding to letters and giving talks.

Moulton contends that his efforts have been hampered because Republicans have not notified him of meetings and campaign gatherings.

The $1,200 he borrowed for his campaign expenses has been exhausted.

Dr. Edward Ragdale, Madison County Republican chairman, says Moulton's election chances are remote because there is no "groundswell of support" but that he wishes him well.

He said Moulton will be shown on the party's sample ballot.

The chairman said the Republican central committee has only limited resources with which to aid candidates.

Moulton says his stands on the Equal Rights Amendment and abortion differ from those of many GOP members, but that he nevertheless considers himself a Republican.

He is a war veteran. Moulton is asserting during the campaign that the incumbent senator's allegiances are to Chicago leaders, Illinoisans and 56th District residents, in that order. He says he favors reversing such priorities.

If elected, he would push for more funds for the education of Illinois children. To help make such money available, he would consider boosting state income taxes and reducing legislators' salaries and benefits.

Moulton proposes having citizens vote directly on public officials' pay. He would seek to require that welfare recipients perform work in order to obtain aid.

He visualizes eventual elimination of real estate taxes.

While Moulton wants abortion issues decided "by the mother," he would ban use of public funds for such surgery.

The candidate says he could "receive a full pension now, if I wanted to" but that he prefers to remain active.

He accuses his ballot opponent of being primarily interested in continuing in governmental service to obtain a state pension.

While conceding that higher income taxes would be a burden on employers, Moulton says he would give substantial attention to ways to reduce unemployment and help failing businesses.

Openings remain for Operation Snowball

Operation Snowball, an attitude examination day, designed to "make healthy teens healthier," will take place from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday at the Granite City Township Hall, 2100 Delmar Avenue.

The one-day workshop is designed to help teenagers help each other by providing information about the effects of alcohol and drug abuse on individuals and the community. It is not a treatment program, it is stressed.

Participants initiate activities to study the problems of alcohol and drug abuse, examine their attitudes and values and learn to make responsible decisions about alcohol and drugs.

This will be the first Operation Snowball for Granite City, according to Cheryl Evans, a counselor at Granite City High School.

South. She said the first Snowball will host teens from schools in Alton, Edwardsville, Collinsville and St. Jacob, as well as from Edwardsville.

High school students interested in participating may contact Mrs. Evans at the GCHS youth guidance office, 877-1512, for a $3 charge to help defray the cost of the lunch.

WORKSHOPS ON FINANCING GROWTH

The Illinois Department of Commerce and Community Affairs (IDCCA) will conduct the third session in a workshop and conference series entitled Financing Growth: Development in the 80's at three separate locations around the state.

Designed for local government officials, developers, regional planners, private business people and Chambers of Commerce, the two-day workshop will provide practical information on the availability and accessibility of economic development financing mechanisms.

The conference is being conducted in three locations: Springfield, Oct. 26-27; Carbondale, Nov. 9-10; and Aurora, Nov. 16-17.

Topics will include Urban Development action grants, on-the-job training programs, U.S. Small Business Administration loans, Industrial Revenue Bonds and other areas of finance packaging.

Early registration is required. The fee is $35 per person. For more information on the workshop or registration, interested persons may contact Lynn Tolle Burger at IDCCA, 1-217-3892.

FIGHT AT TAVERN ENDS WITH ARREST

Responding to the Nineteenth Hole Tavern, 2401 Washington Ave., where a fight reportedly was taking place early this week, police arrested Charles J. Ringling, 25, of 2041 Edison Ave., who was charged with battery.

Ringling allegedly began arguing with Steve Simpson, 2329 Edison Ave., and declined to leave the tavern when requested by the owner and continued to argue. Simpson reportedly received a cut to the left side of the face during the incident.

ALLEGES GC MAN FAILS TO APPEAR

Noticing a man in the 2200 block alley between Delmar and Edison avenues during the weekend, an officer talked with William E. Sweet, 25, of 2003 Washington Ave., who was given identification and allegedly gave a different name.

Sweet was taken into custody when his identity was established and an outstanding warrant was found for his arrest, alleging failure to appear in court on a charge of resisting arrest.

NAMED IN WARRANTS

David A. LaRose, 30, of 1800 Delmar Ave. was taken into custody last week and was transferred to St. Clair County on 1981 warrants alleging driving under the influence of alcohol and obstructing police.

Burglar takes weapons, rings

A burglar ransacked the home of Chester McManaway, 1881 Second St., Madison, and stole three weapons, jewelry and other items, it was reported during the weekend. Entry was gained through a side window.

Missing from the house were a 12 gauge shotgun in a brown gun case, a 30-30 rifle, a .32 caliber nickel-plated revolver with pearl handgrips, a man's gold ring with an opal, worth $200, a gold ring with a diamond, $400, a radio-tapeplayer, $40, and a black bag containing about 150 silver dollars.

TRESPASSING CHARGE

Sheriff deputies took Ben A. Gordon, 32, East St. Louis, to the Granite City police building last week to be booked on a 1980 warrant alleging trespassing. He was freed on $102 bail.

Gunshots heard, arrest man, 24

Upon receiving a report of gunshots being heard in the 2000 block of Washington Avenue late last week, officers talked with two women and a man at that location. All denied knowledge of any shots being fired.

In talking with the man, Robert W. Sorenson, 24, of 2021 Fourteenth St., an officer saw what appeared to be a shotgun shell protruding from his jeans and alleged finding two live 12-gauge shells in Sorenson's pocket.

He was arrested for not having a Firearm Owner's Identification card and he was searched. Another live shell was recovered from Sorenson's pocket, it was alleged.

On the rear seat of an auto parked outside 2015 Washington Ave., an officer saw a shotgun and 18 live shotgun shells allegedly were recovered from the vehicle's floorboard. The auto in which the weapon and ammunition were found was registered to Sorenson, police alleged.

In addition to not having a FOID card, Sorenson was booked on a state charge of unlawful use of a weapon and a city charge of discharging firearms within the city limits. He was released on payment of a $256 cash bond.

FIGHT INCIDENT ENDS IN ARRESTS

Two Granite City youths, both 15 years old, reportedly were fighting at Wilson School during the weekend and were arrested when officers were called to the scene and found about 20 people were standing around.

One of the youths called officers obscene names and the second youth, arrested in the 2800 block of National Avenue, attempted to strike two officers, it was alleged. Both were charged with disorderly conduct and resisting arrest.

The first youth was released to his parents on notice to appear before juvenile authorities. The second youth, who initially declined to give officers his name, was released to his parents about two hours later, also on notice to appear for a hearing.

Knights candy sales to aid mentally retarded Oct. 29-30

Scores of Illinois mayors, town supervisors, and city managers have issued proclamations declaring the weekend of Oct. 29-30, Knights of Columbus Days for the mentally retarded in their communities.

Not only have many towns and cities issued proclamations for the Candy Days, but in a number of larger cities around the state, the two-day drive to aid the mentally retarded is one of the few fund-raising projects permitted.

The drive for the mentally handicapped meets conditions set down by the Illinois Solicitations act that permits qualified workers of organizations sanctioned by the attorney general's office to solicit funds on state highways running through towns that approve fund-raising collections at intersections.

All volunteers soliciting contributions for the K of C drive are covered by insurance. Of course, volunteers under the age of 17 are not covered by the insurance benefits nor are they permitted under the law to be collecting donations on state highways or intersections.

Since the Illinois Knights began their drive to help the mentally retarded in 1970, in excess of $7.30 million has been collected. Nearly all the money was raised on the two-day candy-selling campaign each fall.

Ten percent of the gross receipts is set aside in a special state fund called K of C Charities, Inc. Money from this fund is used to underwrite the cost of major state projects helping the mentally retarded.

In recent years, the Knights have been using the state fund to help underwrite the costs of the Illinois Special Olympics, Inc., summer and winter games.

Prather members attend session

Officers and committee chairmen of the Prather Junior High School Student Council attended the Illinois Association of Junior High Student Councils' leadership workshop.

The state theme, "Getting It Together," was used by the host school, Grant Junior High School, Fairview Heights. Students attended sessions on job training, "swap shop" and project guidelines.

The balance of the collections, less the cost of the candy and minimal promotional expenses, are returned to the community from where they were collected.

Prather council members attending were: Tracy Hamilton, president; Jamie Siebert, secretary; Crystal Gehring, treasurer; Jan Yates, social; Jake Varadan, scholarship; Tracy Gray, service; and Helen Hall, advisor.

DAMAGE BY VANDALS

Two vandals broke into the Bethel Evangelical Free Church educational building, 2445 Stratford Lane, Monday. Flour and other kitchen items were thrown onto the kitchen floor and articles were scattered about the basement. A freezer door was left open by the intruders.

Supt. Briggs is seeking 3rd term

Harold E. "Gene" Briggs, 55, for the past nine years the regional superintendent of schools, is a candidate for re-election to the office of regional superintendent of schools of Madison County.

Nov. 2 He is unopposed. Teacher development has been a major goal of Briggs since he succeeded Wilbur Trimpe in 1973.

"During his tenure, Supt. Briggs has been widely recognized for operating an efficient and courteous office. His working relationships, as well as contact with the public, have consistently been productive and of high quality," an educator has commented.

His expansion of the service component of the office sought to raise minimum educational standards to increasingly higher levels in the school districts of Madison County.

The Educational Therapy Center has been cited as a prime example of the kinds of programs Supt. Briggs has instituted. Two centers presently exist in Collinsville and Alton.

Each provides a program for Madison County adolescent children with emotional and behavior problems. The concept for such centers originated in 1978.

In 1979, a one-year study focusing on disruptive behavior in the schools was conducted by the office in conjunction with a committee of Madison County teachers and professional consultants. This study resulted in a 26-page principals' handbook for in-service training of teachers at the building level.

The Madison County Teacher Center, a federally-funded project, operated for three years under his administrative guidance and fiscal management.

Although federal support has ceased, the Teacher Center continues to provide assistance to teachers throughout the county.

More recent projects include the development of a Drug Abuse Prevention Curriculum and Resource Guide for kindergarten through sixth grade teachers; formation of the Madison County Arts Council, which will funnel programs and services in the arts to schools; and a countywide Career Education Fair held at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville in March 1982.

Opportunities for continuing professional development of county teachers and administrators also emanate from his office.

Best known among these is the Madison County Teachers Institute, a yearly event held in March.

The institute has attracted nationally prominent speakers to this area and has received statewide recognition for its quality of format and programming.

Other developmental opportunities provided through the office include the Madison County Curriculum Council, which offers monthly programs on current issues for curriculum coordinators and administrators, and many specific-purpose workshops.

The latter are offered through the Madison County PTA. His memberships have included the Illinois Associations of School Administrators and School Business Officials, the Rural Education Association and the Illinois Association for Supervision and Curriculum Development.

HAROLD E. BRIGGS

throughout the school year in conjunction with state and local agencies.

Briggs is a resident of Nameoki Township and the Granite City school district. He and his wife, Elizabeth, are the parents of two sons, Gene Jr. and Tim.

A Democrat, he won the primary election in March and next month seeks a third consecutive four-year elective term.

He is a brother of Nameoki Township Supervisor Harry Briggs.

After 15½ years in the Granite City district as a teacher, Stallings School principal and then Mitchell School principal, the local educator was assistant county school superintendent seven years, advancing to the superintendent office when Trimpe became president of Lewis and Clark Community College.

He holds a bachelor of arts degree from McKendree College (1960), master of science degree in education from IUC (1967) and educational specialist certificate from SIUE (1969).

He was born and reared in the Quad-City area.

He served in the U.S. Maritime service (Merchant Marine) in 1944-46, U.S. Naval Reserve in 1947-51 and U.S. Marine Corps Reserve from 1951 until 1970, when he retired with the rank of lieutenant colonel.

He served on active duty with the Marine Corps during the Korean war.

Briggs is past president of the Illinois Education Association's Marquette Division and Phi Delta Kappa's Gateway East Field Chapter.

He was chairman for six years of the Madison County Curriculum Council and was presented a life membership in the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers by the Mitchell School PTA.

His memberships have included the Illinois Associations of School Administrators and School Business Officials, the Rural Education Association and the Illinois Association for Supervision and Curriculum Development.

CPR class is offered here

Each year, heart attacks account for more than 350,000 deaths which occur before the victim reaches the hospital. It doesn't have to be that way, authorities say.

What is done for a victim within the first few minutes after a heart attack may determine survival or death. Cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) could make the difference, and anyone can learn it, according to St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

CPR is a basic life-saving technique performed after a person has suffered "cardiac arrest" — that is, after the heart has stopped beating. It provides emergency life support until more advanced support is available, through a combination of chest compression and mouth-to-mouth breathing.

A trained instructor, certified by the American Heart Association, can teach CPR. It takes several hours, but it can mean a lifetime, a spokesman said.

Free CPR class will be offered at St. Elizabeth Medical Center on Tuesday, Oct. 26, from 6 to 10 p.m. in the PASCAL Hall.

Registration can be completed by calling 798-3169.

This program will be offered monthly (the fourth Tuesday) at SEMC.

Eftimoff unopposed in Nov. 2 election

Vasil Eftimoff, Granite City School District administrative assistant for pupil personnel services, is unopposed Nov. 2 for a four-year Madison County Board term.

He is serving on the board by appointment after Daniel Partney resigned.

The Democratic nomination in District 21 was sought in the March primary by Eftimoff, Robert E. Gaughan and Joseph R. McGinness Sr. Partney did not seek re-election.

Eftimoff, 58, resides at 2800 Michigan Ave. with his wife, Anita Kendall Eftimoff. Their son, James Kendall Eftimoff, is a senior at Trinity University, San Antonio, Texas.

"I will attempt to promote development of the region, zoning, attraction of new industry, development of mass transit, river port development in cooperation with other counties, and continued floodplain development programs," Eftimoff says. "I will work hard and be cooperative with other County Board members and other governmental bodies." His campaign is self-financed.

Elective offices Eftimoff has held are: the former Granite City High School Board of Education, 1949-50; Granite City Community Unit District Nine Board of Education, 1950-54; and Granite City Democratic committeeman in Precinct 21 from 1960 to 1964.

He ran for the office of Madison County school superintendent in 1968, 1974 and 1978.

Eftimoff has 32 years' experience in school work as a classroom teacher, coach, guidance counselor, principal, director of guidance, and administrator in such fields as student health and special education.

He is active in the Slavic Friends group of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

Eftimoff has served as president of Coordinated Youth Services and of the Lincoln Athletic Club and as chairman of Lincoln Place homecomings.

A past member of the Granite City Public Library Board, he is a State of Illinois due process hearing officer.

VASIL EFTIMOFF

Eftimoff served as chairman of the successful $3.7 million bond issue election campaign in the Granite City school district in 1980.

As budgetary chairman of Coordinated Youth services, he works with a $1.4 million annual community service program. The pupil personnel services portion of the yearly School District Nine budget totals $3 million. He is retiring from his school position in June 1983.

A past Granite City Optimist, Jaycee and Rotarian, Eftimoff is active in the DAV, American Legion, Eagles, Lincoln Athletic Club, St. Louis Ambassadors, Illinois Historical Society, St. Louis Zoo Association and Missouri Humane Society.

He is a member of the Tri-City Shrine Club, Masonic Lodge 833, Alind Temple and the Shriner's Hospital Unit for Crippled Children.

He also has been affiliated with the United Way, the Boy Scouts and the Crusade for Forgotten Children.

Eftimoff's educational organizations include the Council for Exceptional Children, Council for Administrators of Special Education and Phi Delta Kappa.

He is active in the Southwestern Illinois Hearing and Speech Association and the Eastern Orthodox Church. Born and educated in Granite City, he holds a bachelor degree from Illinois College, Jacksonville, and a master degree from St. Louis University.

Vandals active in Quad-Cities

Several incidents of vandalism were reported to police during the weekend, including tires being slashed and windows broken.

At 9 a.m. Sunday, Ed Mullins of Schulte and Burch Biscuit Co., 1332 State St., told Madison police that a window was smashed in a 1978 van belonging to the firm.

Reporting at 10:50 p.m. Saturday that tires were punctured on their vehicles, all parked in the vicinity of 21st Street and Delmar Avenue, were Annette Scott, 2432 Grand Ave., two tires on her car; Raymond Schultz, St. Louis, four tires on his car; and Jerry Staton, 2805 Morrison Road, three tires on his auto.

Guy Jenkins, 3225 Wayne Ave., reported at 10:35 a.m. Saturday that vandals slashed a rear tire on his auto and at 4:15 p.m. Friday, Thelma E. Porys, 2129 Derry Ave., reported two tires, each valued at $100, had been cut on his car, which was parked in his yard.

At 10:10 a.m. Saturday, Jack Mulach, 58 Terrace Lane, reported a vehicle apparently traveled through the front yard at his home, damaging six small shrubs and leaving six large ruts in the lawn.

Warren Steinbecker, 2029 Russell Ave., told officers at 4:25 p.m. Saturday that neighbors alleged seeing an elderly man putting gravel and rocks in the gas tank of Steinbecker's truck.

ALLEGED TWO MEN DAMAGE PROPERTY Both Larry D. Keel, 38, who was staying at the Travelodge motel, 19th Street and Cleveland Boulevard, and John M. Benson, 61, of St. Louis, were booked on state charges of criminal damage to property last week.

A room at the motel in which Keel was registered allegedly was found to have leaves in the sink and toilet and a large amount of water on the floor which had damaged carpeting and clothing, according to the proprietors.

September crime in Madison up slightly

Madison experienced an eight percent increase in overall crime for the month of September, compared to September 1981, recently-released statistics from the police department indicate.

A total of 38 crimes were indicated in the monthly crime comparison for September 1981, with 41 listed for last month.

While burglaries and thefts both increased from 11 to 17, assault and battery cases decreased from 11 to 5 compared to September 1981. One attempted burglary was reported during last month with the same figure for a year ago. There was one criminal homicide a year ago, but none reported last month. There were no forcible rapes in September of either year. In September 1981, there were two robberies, but none was reported last month. Of the 17 burglaries last month, six were residential, one was at a garage, one at an apartment and two at businesses. Five burglaries of trucks and two of automobiles were reported. All five truck burglaries were cleared by arrest as was one automobile burglary.

There were 75 arrests made last month; 34 were for incidents not related to traffic violations and 41 were for traffic infractions. Nine juvenile detentions were indicated.

Eighteen motor vehicle accidents were reported in Madison last month. The city collected $2,126 in fines during September 1982.
